Artist facing court date on fraud charge

By PAUL WOLF

PAUL BLAINE Henrie, peninsula artist and former candidate for Carmel City Council, is being charged with art fraud and awaits a May 5 arraignment in Monterey municipal court.

For several months now, the Monterey Police Department has been involved with the Henrie case, which focuses on only one of dozens of alleged incidents of fraud.

Henrie was arrested in Castroville by the Monterey County Sheriff's Department on Wednesday, April 22.

Monterey Det. Phil Penko said Henrie is believed to have passed on many of his own paintings as originals of Spanish surrealist Joan Miro, finding gullible buyers willing to pay between $2,000 and $3,000 a piece. This sort of forgery is a felony in California, Penko reported.

Possible involvement

Henrie had been using a Southern

Gun-wielding 'pros' rob PB

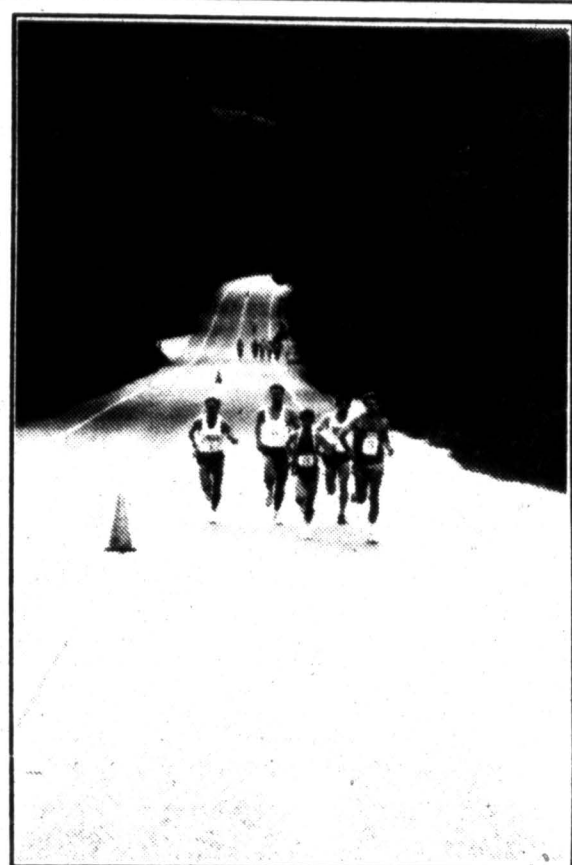

MARCHESA JEWELRY in the Pebble Beach shopping complex lost "many thousands of dollars" in cash and goods to two "very professional," armed holdup men who tied up the owner and a clerk before fleeing with the loot, sheriff's spokesperson Bill Cassara said Wednesday.

Cassara added that the armed robbery occurred at 5 p.m. Tuesday as shop employee Betty Dean was closing up.

He said sheriff's investigators were pursuing leads Wednesday. And: "Their dress and demeanor showed that the two men — white males from 35-50 years of age — were real pros. An inventory hasn't been completed, but the loss was substantial — in the many thousands of dollars."

The sheriff's media statement said Dean was "forced by gunpoint" into the shop's rear area and "tied up." It said Louise Trout, owner of Marchesa, approached while suspects were going through display cases. She too was "forced into rear" and bound. The holdup pair then left quickly, though no getaway vehicle was observed.

"We're putting feelers out," Cassara said. "We don't yet know who we're dealing with, so we're not targeting specific persons. I can't say that they're locals. All I can tell you is they were extremely professional, and at least one carried a gun."

White, Livingston raised top campaign dollar amounts

By PAUL WOLF

RECORDS OF campaign contributions lodged at city hall reveal Mayor Ken White and Councilwoman Barbara Livingston to be the top fund-raisers for the April 14 elections, raising $7,493 and $7,201 respectively.

The amounts are listed in financial statements covering the period up to March 28. The final declarations must be submitted to the Carmel administration by July 31.

White and Livingston are listed as having spent $2,296 and $3,281 by that date, well under what they raised. But a city hall source stresses that is to be expected because big fund-raising efforts tend to precede the big expenditures as voting day approaches. The top vote-getting council candidate, Phil Coniglio, and defeated council candidate Don Kramer raised $3,141 and $3,191 respectively. They spent $2,364 and $1,726.

A unique feature of the election turned out to be the commitments of two candidates, arguably at opposite poles politically: mayoral aspirant Barney Laiolo and council candidate John Thompson spent nothing on their quest for office.

At least that is so from a technical standpoint. So long as a candidate does not either raise or spend more than $1,000, his or her campaign finances are a private matter.

Take Laiolo, for instance. He said he raised nothing and spent about $700 out of his own pocket — to buy envelopes and stamps and various things. He was still able to file a simple 470 form, as compared with the more cumbersome 490 long forms that were the burden of the four fund-raising candidates.

But Laiolo — who lost to White 967 votes to 800 — makes an interesting study of how, in a small-town setting, a candidate can do fairly well spending fairly little, especially with a few friends.

For example, the Citizens for Hatton Canyon spent $2,154 on advertisements supporting Laiolo, placed in three newspapers, according to city hall records. For the Carmel Pine Cone alone, the bill was $462.

With fetching smile

'Lady of Sunset' wins hearts in her debut

By JOHN DETRO

THE NUDE young woman, a newcomer to Carmel, deserves all the attention she has been getting at Sunset Center in recent days. It's not at all sexist to cite her completely fetching smile — shy, flirty, inquiring, awake, with her bare feet touched by sea-foam.

Her firm form? Smooth as marble. Height and weight? Exactly 5' 7-1/2" and 1,100 pounds. She is marble, you see — white Carrara marble carved by the Florentine sculptor Galli. And her birth year appears at statue's base: 1886.

Already dubbed The Lady of Sunset by City Cultural Commission Chairperson Linda Anderson and approving colleagues, she arrived here April 20 as a gift from the Flagg Family Foundation. She stands beside the hallway of Evans Gallery — just several steps from Cultural Director Brian Donoghue's office.

That foundation's Morgan Flagg, San Francisco real estate investor and former homebuilder who once lived in Monterey, approached Cultural Commissioner Antonia Verleye regarding the present (appraised value: $9,500). His stipulation — that the lady be given "a protected, covered area" — was met most happily. The donation will be listed at city hall.

One of the maidens

"We'll do some research on the artist," Donoghue said. "Maybe she was part of a group at one time. She looks like one of the maidens who might have decorated a reflecting pool."

Donoghue told a small joke on himself: "I'm good at estimating the (theater) house, but not at weights. I thought she was 300-400 pounds. I requested that public works crewmen do the moving job, but three guys couldn't budge her. (Acting City Administrator) Greg (D'Ambrosio) unfroze enough of our funds for me to hire professional movers with a hoist. The bill was under $100."

Move her from — where? Just as the question occurred on Tuesday morning, so

Carmel women frightened but unhurt by big Ferndale quake

By JOHN DETRO

ON A mission for Carmel, a group of local women missed the highly destructive earthquake at Ferndale by about one hour.

"We were in Eureka attending California Preservation Foundation's annual conference," Enid Sales of the Carmel Architectural Historical Survey (CAHS) said from her home on Tuesday. "The area's full of historic structures. Many tours were planned. The Ferndale bus was scheduled to leave at 1 p.m. Saturday. The earthquake hit at 11:56 Saturday morning. We're very lucky that we were 25-30 miles away and not right there."

The Ferndale temblor (6.9 magnitude) ravaged Victorian buildings. Then the Far North Coast had two more quakes (6.0 and 6.7) within hours. Damages reached many millions of dollars. Gov. Wilson proclaimed a state of emergency in Humboldt County.

The statewide conclave naturally drew Sales — CAHS survey project coordinator — as part of her local service. Also in the Carmel delegation were June Harris, Margaret White, Claudine Van Vleet, Jean Rodriguez and city planning staffer Molly Erickson.

"We were up there from last Wednesday evening until yesterday (Monday)." Sales continued. "Of course we were frightened, but not nearly as disturbed as East Coast people who were at the conference to present papers. We'd been through the Loma Prieta earthquake; I'd felt others. The damage there resembled that caused by the Loma Prieta."

They had lunch

What did they do to keep their spirits up? "We went north to Trinidad and had lunch," she said. "The historic buildings are all along that coast. We were still able to see quite a bit, and sit in on seminars."

The whole group "was pretty shaken," Sales added. "The Ferndale earthquake was one of the strongest I've ever known. And the other two weren't 'aftershocks' (as officials said) — they were all full earthquakes."

Dear Editor:

I have been associated with Carmel since 1947 and have never before seen our little village so badly treated as in this last election. The underhanded campaign run by the CRA was inexcusable. Untrue, unproven statements were printed and handed out to the public at the last minute, carefully timed, so that there could be no rebuttal. That is something Carmel does not need or deserve.

The CRA started out as a unifying organization. I joined it with great hope, but it quickly drifted into the control of a few unprincipled devious people who have created a deviousness that this town does not need or deserve. Until that is cleaned up, Ken does not have much of a chance no matter how honorable the thought.

Dear Editor:

We take for granted that the "free press" in this country defends our right of free speech whenever they defend that right for themselves. Although we should all be guardians of all the privileges granted to us by the Bill of Rights, I have come to expect the press to be there protecting my back.

I was extremely disappointed when reading your editorial advocating censorship of our elected officials' right of association that is guaranteed by our constitution. Of all the institutions in this county, how can you be so willing to ask others to give up their personal liberties?

To ask any council member to restrict their "affiliations," because your newspaper is not at the moment in agreement with one of the organizations they belong to, is extremely dangerous. Suggesting that you are calling for this in the "spirit of achieving harmony and goodwill" is hypocritical.

To do as you urge would empower you, The Carmel Pine Cone, with the ability to decide which group is "politically correct" and which group is not.

Remember, it is easy to defend the rights of those you agree with — the test comes in defending the same rights of those you do not agree with.

Editor's note: We think Judy Thodos misses the point. She uses the First Amendment argument, which we vigorously endorse and defend, to justify potential political conflict of interest, which we strongly oppose. Political office in Carmel is, after all, nonpartisan and should be kept that way.

Dear Editor:

Hurray for mini-parks! The skyline of Carmel is changing dramatically. Mini-parks provide space to plant upper canopy trees to replace some of those lost to development or drought or simply old age. The few parking spaces lost are worth it. Parks enhance the shopping experience in the downtown area and provide visual relief from too many cars.

It's time for Carmel to return to its love of nature and respect for its beautiful forest. 1992 has been designated as the Year of the Forest. Let's all give our support to this future-minded project that will leave a legacy of beautiful trees to be enjoyed for many generations.

Mini-parks are a very "Carmel" thing to do. Gary Kelly and staff deserve thanks.

Dear Editor:

The invasion of the 843-acre Hatton Canyon watershed by the proposed Caltrans freeway requires a program of "mitigation." The $3.2 million proposed for riparian and re-vegetation work is the most expensive ever for a Caltrans project.

But can a forest ecosystem and wetlands be mitigated? A wetland is one of the most productive ecosystems on earth providing habitat for countless animals, as well as purifying water, recharging the aquifer and providing flood control. Seth Zuckerman (Whole Earth Review, Spring 1990) relating examples of botched restoration projects says, "In North Carolina, several years after the apparently successful restoration of a wetland, only one-sixth as much living matter was produced each year as in a comparable marsh." Failures such as this may not reflect inept restoration techniques but simply the fact that while ecosystems may be partly restored, they can never be fully replaced.

In 7th year, Big Sur Marathon blossoms with personality

By PAUL WOLF

THEY HAILED from places like Sardis, British Columbia, Bridgeport, Pa. and Klamath Falls, Ore., traveling great distances to run in Sunday's Big Sur International Marathon.

One came from Oakland — last-minute entrant Brad Hawthorne. He wasn't even going to compete this year, but the rugged Hawthorne shook off a nagging injury and a recent bad marathon experience to tame Big Sur with a well-honed, gliding stride.

It was the fifth victory in five appearances for Hawthorne, who hit the finish line following 2 hours, 22 minutes and 55 seconds of running. He covered nearly four times the ground the average person would travel at a brisk walk.

And what kind of terrain was it? What kind of drawing card is Big Sur to attract 2,407 runners early morning April 26?

As fast as Hawthorne and other top runners conveyed themselves 26.2 miles, from Pfeiffer State Park to Highway 1 and Rio Road, their times will not make jaws drop among the community of elite runners. The reason is that with its incessant rolling hills, the course is as taxing as it is breathtakingly beautiful.

"Of all the major marathons across the country, this is hands down the most challenging," ventured Mike Fanelli, who is the enthusiastic finish line announcer.

"It's a tough course," agreed Nellie Wright, a Pacific Grove resident who finished fourth overall in the women's division, and first for women over 40. "That's why we don't the best runners coming here. They would feel like they are wasting their time."

There are, of course, two races for those who are serious about these kinds of events: the race against the competitors, and the race against the clock.

Fanelli called Big Sur a "strength-runner's course," as opposed to a speed-runner's course. True, there is downhill for every uphill, but all that pounding on the descent takes its toll as well.

If the potential for fast times doesn't tempt the elites, how about the $4,000 purse for winners of either gender? Well, that's not a bad incentive, but it doesn't compare to, say, the Boston Marathon's $60,000 cash prize.

Unique spirit

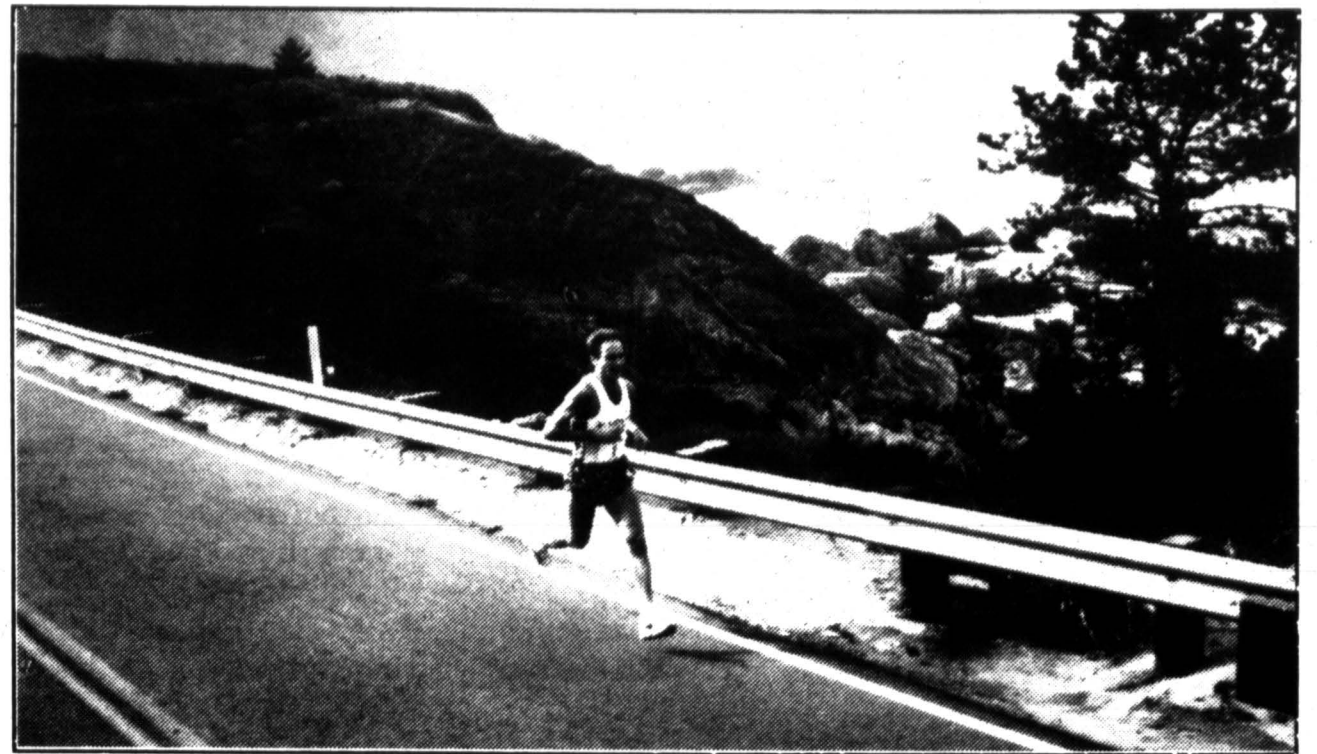

Yet Big Sur has much else to offer the competitive and the casual runner alike. And with its seventh annual event behind it, the race now has its own spirit and personality.

Hurricane Point's 560 foot climb, around the 12-mile mark, may some day be as famous as Boston's Heartbreak Hill, or the San Francisco Bay to Breakers Hayes Street Hill.

And the beauty of Bixby Bridge is a stunning half-way mark and is fast becoming a symbol of the race. Then there are the little trappings that are as much standard fixtures as the dress-up athletes of San Francisco distinguish the Bay to Breakers. These are, for starters, the road-side orchestra and the man at the grand piano.

The 36-year-old Hawthorne, who set the course record (2:16:39) in his first Big Sur Marathon in 1987, is certainly a strong part of this fast-developing mythology. He is the reigning champ and standard-bearer.

About a week before race day, he told The Carmel Pine Cone there was "a 10-percent chance" he would run, as he had been struggling since January with a bruised right foot. Moreover, as recently as April 11, he was battered by heat and humidity in the Olympic Trials in Columbus, Ohio, failing to qualify for Barcelona. With just two weeks and a day to recover, he was expected to put off his goal of a fifth title until next year.

Hawthorne shakes free

For the first several miles, Hawthorne ran with a cluster of runners that soon broke down to just three. And by mile 18, Hawthorne shook himself loose, opening up a steadily growing lead. He would win by more than a quarter of a mile.

As he sailed along Highway 1, a number of people greeted him with, "All right, Brad! Looking good, Brad!" Everyone seemed to know him. This visitor from Oakland is already a source of local pride, as he has helped make the Big Sur International Marathon what it is today.

Residents say it's not so easy living near Carmel High School

By PAUL WOLF

CUSD SUPT. Vance Baldwin called to mind an aerial photograph he has placed on his office wall: Carmel High School circa 1950. Just a school, surrounded by acres of forest. No homes at all.

Back then, you wouldn't have needed the kind of meeting that was orchestrated Tuesday evening, April 21. Neighbors of the high school met with district officials for about 90 minutes to discuss mutual problems like parking, litter and fire hazards.

The difference

From an aerial view in 1992, you would not see just homes, but an abundance of cars crowding the campus, located off Highway 1 at the top of Ocean Avenue.

"No one could have anticipated 50 years ago that every 16-, 17- and 18-year old would have a car," Baldwin said to about 35 people at the Carmel High School library. "But that seems to be the case today."

Thus students have a problem finding places to park, and residents are burdened by the volume of stationary vehicles in front of their homes.

Residents of Stewart Place, a cul-de-sac behind the high school, complained about cars on both sides of their street. It's a challenge at best even for emergency vehicles to pass through the un-moving congestion.

Jim Suchan, who actually lives on Carmel Hills Drive, sympathized with the plight of that dead-end street: "Considering the significant dollars we invest in our homes, I think the problems of the neighbors should take precedence (over those of the students)."

Another resident, Roy Anderson, said there are other annoyances, like litter everywhere and oil drippings on the pavement. One resident reported the students' propensity for "high speed turns at the end of the cul-de-sac."

And another resident made a suggestion that appeared not too popular when it was introduced: convert the tennis courts into parking space, and let the students park somewhere else.

No immediate solutions

Generally, the meeting was marked by goodwill and friendliness. Baldwin admitted he would offer no solutions, but he took note of all comments and promised to discuss the issues with his staff.

Chris Tescher was adamant that a solution must be found to students smoking in the shrub-covered meadow behind the campus, which constitutes a serious fire hazard. "Students have to be controlled because the ramifications are so large," Tescher said.

He and others argued for some means students can police each other. Everyone admitted such a method must not make the students feel they are, in effect, informing on their peers.

Smoking is forbidden on campus, which means students find the nearest convenient spot on the grounds to light up.

Kelly Starrett, who is vice president of the student body, argued there is a logic to creating an agreed-on smoking area. "I know schools are supposed to project a smoke free, alcohol-free environment," Starrett said. "But realistically, everyone is enthusiastic about a designated smoking area."

Baldwin said such a zone presents a "moral dilemma." And that says nothing about the fact that such a setup is illegal under state law.

In addition, residents said the students who smoke in front of the campus do little to help the school's image.

Local high schools report low dropout

BY SUSAN BECK

COMPARED TO the overall scene in California, local high schools, including Carmel High, maintain a remarkable low dropout rate.

In 1986 81,885 students in California dropped out of high school. However, statewide efforts have reduced that number to 59,612 in 1991.

During that time, both Carmel and Pacific Grove High Schools experienced an average of 2 to 4 students a year leaving the system, in schools with attendance figures in the neighborhood of 600.

Marie Ishida, principal of Carmel High School, explained the low rate at Carmel High School. "It probably has a lot to do with the community we live in. The parents are supportive and the attitude here

Carmel takes interest in Pacific Grove's Rocky Shores cause

By PAUL WOLF

EFFORTS TO preserve Pacific Grove's Rocky Shores coastal property have received a boost as residents of Carmel have joined forces with their neighbor and the Monterey Peninsula Regional Park District.

To date, $800 have been raised by Carmelites. And that comes after only about a week and a half of soliciting.

Regardless of how much money the newly established Carmel Friends of Rocky Shores will raise, there is great symbolic significance to the show of support.

"I think it's very exciting," said Grace Gutsell, who originated PG's "400 Club," a model for Carmel Friends and a contributor to the City of Pacific Grove's Rocky Shores Preservation Fund.

So far, eight Carmelites have contributed $100, according to Steve Brooks, who is coordinating the drive. He said his goal is to raise $2,000 toward the acquisition of Rocky Shores parcels.

did great good fortune. Through Sunset Center's front doors came Morgan Flagg and Commissioner Verleye. They wanted to check out the lady's new site.

"She's from the yard of a Monterey House that I bought in 1966," Flagg said. "Soon enough, my wife Claire and I looked upon her as almost like one of our daughters. She was a little vagrant, and we took her in."

"When summer came," Verleye said, "she wore garlands of flowers. At Christmastime — holly in her hair."

"We're delighted," Donoghue told Flagg. "She's a wonderful addition to Carmel's public art."

On that note, anyone wishing to donate may reach Donoghue by calling Sunset Center. The city will provide receipts for tax purposes.

CBA alert leads to arrest

CARMEL WAS saved by what you might call "Neighborhood Watch, business style."

As a result of that phenomenon, a 29-year-old Salinas man, who has a criminal record as long as any given desk top, is now in county jail. The man is charged with burglary, resisting arrest and violation of parole.

An interesting question is what could have happened had Michael Campa not been arrested, and had the Carmel Business Association not had a security network in place.

Here is how it went, as relayed by Carmel Sgt. Dan Clark.

In recent weeks in Carmel there has been a series of burglaries in which a suspect has stolen money from cash drawers and from purses belonging to shop employees.

On April 14, Carmel police received information from more than a half dozen shops, all of which sell jewelry, reporting that some strangers were "casing" their businesses. They were "wandering around checking alarm systems, checking the entries and looking at merchandise," Clark explained.

Dark green tatoos

Two different jewelry shops even managed to produce two surveillance videos of the suspects. Descriptions were taken of Hispanic adult males, who had dark green pen-etched tatoos, of the prison variety and denoting prison-gang affiliation.

A Carmel Business Association alert went out to shops — the neighborhood watch was on.

On Thursday, April 23, police received a call from someone at the Derek Rayne clothing store on Ocean Avenue. The suspects were located at Special Effects on Ocean Avenue, where Campa was believed to have taken money from the store's office.

"He fought hard"

The man bolted from police, running about the distance of three storefronts until he was grabbed by two officers. "He fought hard, but he was wrestled to the ground," Clark recounted, adding that the officers escaped with just minor cuts and scratches.

He had fled with only $23, but the charges of resisting arrest and parole violation adding a measure of seriousness. Moreover, Campa's list of prior arrests embraces everything from assault with a deadly weapon to grand theft, Clark said.

The sergeant reports that Campa is an "active member" of the Nuestra Familia prison gang. Police hope to connect him with the rash of burglaries carried out in recent weeks.

Moreover, he is a suspect of a shoplifting incident in Pacific Grove, in which two 14-karat gold bracelets were stolen.

The CBA network may have shown what law-enforcement people say all the time — that the citizens themselves can be the greatest asset in the task of fighting crime.

Former council candidate arrested

California-based art appraiser in his scam, whether or not the woman was in on it, Penko said. There is good reason to believe the appraiser was involved, yet it was she who informed a victim that a painting was not authentic.

"It seems surprising she would do that if she was in fact involved," Penko said. It is possible she "just didn't have a strong enough working knowledge of Miro" to know in earlier appraisals that she was dealing with phonies, he said.

Limited in its expertise on such matters, the MPD enlisted the help of the art fraud division of the Los Angeles Police Department, which found an expert to confirm the status of the painting in question. "This expert saw right off it wasn't Miro," Penko said.

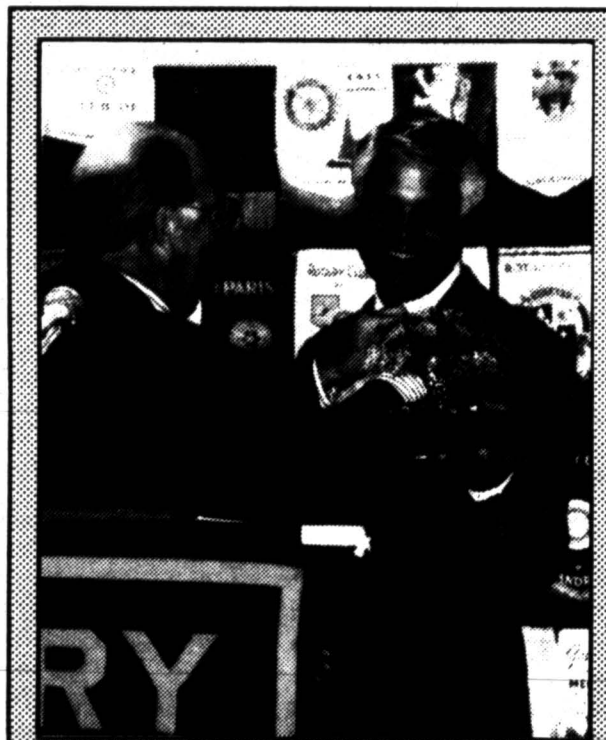

In addition, a hand-writing expert determined the signature to be a forgery.

Of the 30 or so suspected forgeries, "We believe he (Henrie) painted all of them himself," Penko said.

At the time of his arrest, Henrie was believed to be living in a trailer in Monterey. Police determined his true name was Blaine McKinley Henrie.

With his trademark cowboy hat and bohemian air, Henrie briefly entered the public life of Carmel in 1988, when he made an unsuccessful bid for city council. He received 17 votes.

Regional ambulance group hires Patterson as manager

By JOHN DETRO

CARMEL REGIONAL Fire Ambulance Authority (CRFAA) has hired a manager — Richard A. Patterson — who'll step into the key post May 11.

The major development in CRFAA's independence from contracted help was announced by interim manager Gary Carmichael, also secretary of the agency board and Mid-Valley Fire District chief.

"Richard has been with Monterey County Emergency Medical Service Agency for several years," Carmichael said, "and highly involved in training paramedics. He's a paramedic himself. He went through three different oral examinations, coming out number one (in the agency's review of nine qualified candidates). We offered the job; he accepted.

Richard will come aboard May 11. We're lucky to get him as the full-time ambulance manager we wanted."

Pay negotiated

At this writing, Patterson's salary was being negotiated. He will "be a government employee like any other fireman," Carmichael explained, and oversee three paramedic units, one basic life support unit, nine paramedics and six emergency medical technicians.

CRFAA began life in November 1990 as a joint-powers entity involving three fire departments — Carmel, Mid-Valley, Carmel Valley. At first, it contracted for personnel with Peninsula Medics, Inc., of Monterey, which later cancelled the pact as of June 9.

"They said they couldn't get along with the CRFAA Operations Committee," Carmichael said. "Contract personnel stayed at the fire stations; some tensions developed. And they claimed some financial reasons which remain unexplained. Our board decided to hire our own people instead of contracting out. You can see how Richard Patterson's an important part of the whole."

Carmichael added that CRFAA would be ready to roll anew by the time that agreement runs out the morning of June 9: "We're rebuilding. We have 25 applications from paramedics and 41 for emergency medical technician. I wish we had more time, but the board told me to be ready. And I'll do it, no matter what."

Physical exam

Also under negotiation were Patterson's benefits. The job offer was made after the Monterey resident took and passed a physical examination.

CRFAA extends from Carpenter St. at Highway 1 on the north to almost the San Luis Obispo County border on the south, Carmichael said — "and from the ocean to the 32-mile marker on Carmel Valley Road."

Current board members: Carmel's Bob Fischer, Gene Erner (Mid-Valley), Larry Busick (Carmel Valley Fire District).

JFK topic of lecture

PAUL KANGAS, private investigator and San Francisco Bay area resident, will deliver a lecture, "Who Killed JFK?" on Thursday evening, 7 to 9 p.m., April 30, in Lecture Forum 103 at Monterey Peninsula College.

that," said Laiolo, in a phone interview. "These were unsolicited ads. It was all their money."

"During the interview, Laiolo said he hadn't even known that the group was using a photograph of him for those ad spaces. He didn't give anybody his photograph.

The paradox

Perhaps paradoxically, Laiolo believes he probably would have beat White had he taken part in fund-raising. Yet he insists that the most useful part of campaigning is not spending a great deal of money, but doing tenacious door-to-door canvassing.

"It's not how much money you spend," he said, "but how you spend it and what you do (in general)."

Since everything must be accounted for, what many candidates do, in effect, is "make a loan to themselves," said the city hall source.

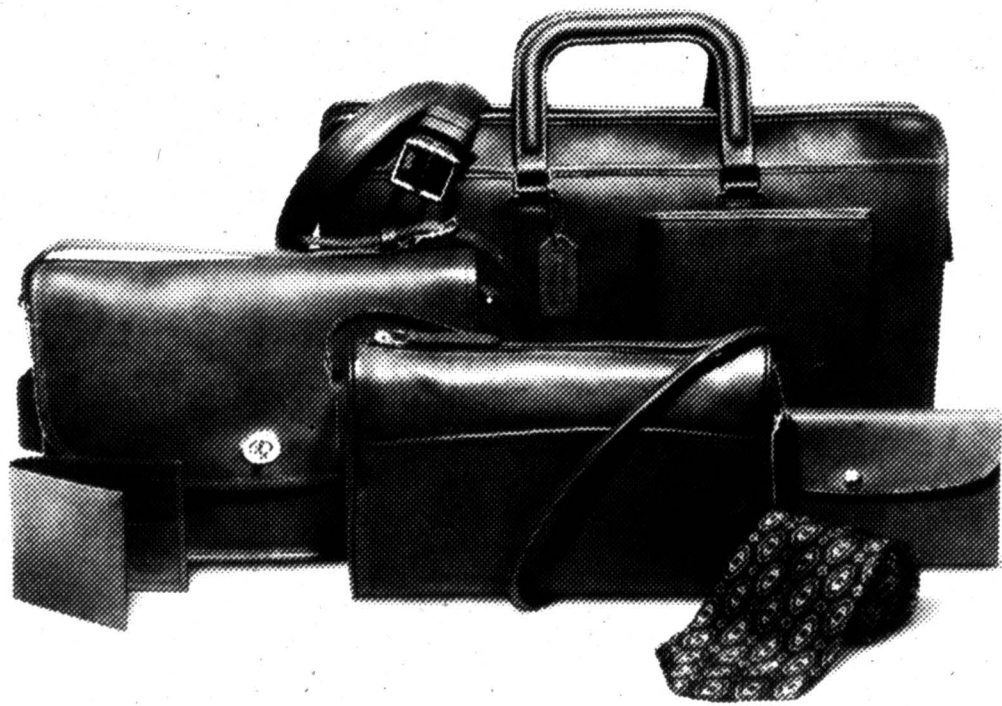

For example, back in January, Livingston gave herself some seed money, with one such self-administered loan of $1,000.

The Coniglio family, which owns and operates the Mediterranean Market on Ocean Avenue, made a $1,000 contribution to Phil Coniglio's cause, under the name of Carla Coniglio.

An interesting feature of Livingston's statements is that she managed to acquire an abundance of small contributions: twenty-two in all between $100 and $200, and countless under $100.

Canyon's pine forest will not recreate the existing ecosystem. Like the replanted Monterey Pine forest along Highway 1 on Carmel Hill, it would be a single species, single generation tree farm devoid of the rich variety of plants and animals present in a natural system. The Hatton Canyon watershed, which now percolates rain water into the Carmel Valley aquifer and helps prevent salt water intrusion at the river mouth, will become a culvert shunting petro-chemical runoff into the river at the bridge, into the lagoon and out to sea. Ecosystems and particularly wetlands cannot be replaced and moved around like living-room furniture. Hatton Canyon's irreplaceable resources have economic as well as aesthetic value. They should not be compromised to move automobiles a little faster.

Carmel income

Dear Editor:

The $50,000,000 income/purchasing power figure for Carmel residents is very conservative and obviously too low. This can be verified very quickly by turning to Page I-12 of the General Plan. There one learns that according to 1979 census figures, there are 2,560 households in Carmel. Not surprisingly, one also learns that Carmelites' annual income is above average — back in 1979, it was $18,607. Multiplying these two figures, you come up with $47,633,920 — obviously too low an estimate if inflation over the past 12 years is factored in.

The point is: there is a sizeable amount of spending power available right here in Carmel. Of course, there is much competition for this money, so the promotion aimed at local, sophisticated shoppers has to be based on convenience, uniqueness, quality merchandise and friendly, courteous service. These are the values that appeal to Carmelites. Many local shops realize this and prosper from this source of income.

Why can't the business community and the residents work together on creative programs to engender a "Buy Carmel" mentality. Everyone would benefit — businesses would keep a larger percentage of the locally available dollars, and residents would have the enjoyment of shopping in their own business district.

Kremer on commission

Dear Editor:

Don Kremer would make a great selection to fill the seat vacated by Phil Coniglio on the Carmel Planning Commission.

For a candidate who only campaigned heavily for only two weeks, Don won a lot of support and made a very close race for city councilman. This support shows he is well liked, and many feel he would serve Carmel well.

After serving on the planning commission and becoming even better known and established, I would like to see him run for the next council seat.

Congratulations to Phil Coniglio for being the top vote getter in this election and to all the candidates on their victories.

Per dollar spent on campaigning, Barney Laiolo probably got the most votes per dollar, (congratulations to him on his performance).

Perhaps Phil or Barney would consider running for mayor in '94.

Warm Welcome

Dear Editor:

Last spring my husband and I, along with our faithful dog, moved to Carmel for a short stay while my husband attended a language course at D.L.I.

We knew Carmel was, by far, one of the most beautiful places we'd ever seen. What we didn't know was how warmly we would be welcomed into a wonderful community of fellow dog lovers.

Now, as we prepare to move on to other places, we would like to say to Molly, Murphy, Anya, Junior, Toby, Juneau, Susie, Beau, Jazzy, Sesame, Pipper, Taj, Barkley, and Heart the Carmel Beach Dog Walkers (afternoon crew) our thanks and our friendship.

We will miss you all.

CV Moratorium

Dear Editor:

There is before the County Board of Supervisors a proposal for Carmel Valley referred to as a "moratorium," which is being offered by 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser-Kaufman.

This is not a moratorium, it is a sham. Under this proposal, building is permitted if the builder is willing to pay a $27,000 fee (or perhaps $18,000 under a new proposal) to offset the effect of development on traffic in the Valley.

Such a fee falls most heavily on individual lot owners, who are the least serious threat to overbuilding in the Valley.

Adding $27,000 or $18,000 to the cost of building a home is a burden on the individual owner. It is, however, no burden at all on a large developer for whom it is simply the cost of doing business. Neither Pacific Union, the owner of the San Carlos Ranch, nor any other large developer will be deterred by adding such a small fee to a home selling for $400,000 or $500,000.

Residents of the Valley are being lulled into a false sense of security by this typically political approach to local problems. Ms. Strasser Kaufman should cease referring to her proposal as a "moratorium." It is a proposal that will allow massive development in the Valley, leading to irreversible damage in pollution, congestion and water shortages, not only in the Valley, but in adjacent communities.

Trying to look like a preservationist, while proposing a vehicle to accomplish the opposite, is "politics as usual."

Thanks for endorsement

Dear Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank voters and all of those who worked so hard in support of my campaign for council member, Carmel-by-the-Sea. In addition, I want to thank the Pine Cone editorial board for their endorsement of our effort.

Even though we missed winning by a small margin, (115 votes) I consider the race to be a very positive experience. Our campaign started as a "grass root" effort with a few volunteers. As we concentrated on the issues affecting our village and refrained from "negative" campaigning, our support team grew steadily. I'm very proud of our campaign's professional approach. We can hold our heads high.

Hopefully, the new council will move swiftly to implement solutions to some of the problems facing Carmel-by-the-Sea. If not, I will certainly consider running again in tow years. With the campaign team we had gathered by election day and a base support of 854 voters, I believe we can be very effective in the next campaign.

During the campaign, my wife Diane and I met any wonderful people and made many friends. These relationships are very important to us and we hope they will become long-lasting.

Thank you again. I appreciate your trust and support.

Laudable efforts

Dear Editor:

Even with the current laudable efforts of the Monterey Peninsula Regional Park District, the Elkhorn Slough Foundation, and funding proceeds from Prop 117, it is obvious that the public cannot protect all the high value wildlife habitat of Monterey County through purchase at this time. To allow rapid development of these special lands because we cannot afford their purchase is short sighted. In the future we may have the public will and funds for acquisition and have evolved enlightened development planning which allows use of these lands without the often massive disruption of natural processes that results from today's methods. If we allow the continued disruption of valuable habitats they and their wildlife may be gone for ever.

This concern has now reached beyond a few conservationists being alarmed about a rare, perhaps economically unimportant species, to the major industries of agriculture and the salmon fishing industry of the west coast and their battle over land use and water allocation.

It is now time for the concept of regional land use planning based on complete ecosystems or watersheds to be enacted. Habitat loss is the major force causing the decline of the earth's species diversity. The rate of species loss is too high to allow the timely understanding of the biology and habitat requirements of but a fraction of earth's life. The ONE action that all concerned people can do to insure the future for all life is to promote the maximization of habitat protection and restoration in their neighborhood and beyond.

Arts park at Ord will be proposed

By JOHN DETRO

DESPITE A tight deadline on their official try, leaders of Artists Equity's regional chapter — and those inspired by the advocacy group — will push for an Arts Park or similar concept on acreage opened by the Fort Ord pullout.

Such a spread could include studios, galleries, theater rehearsal space, offices, festival facilities and low-cost living quarters for artists.

These developments emerged April 22 from a public panel discussion staged by Artists Equity (AE) — Central Coast Chapter — at Pacific Grove Art Center. A crowd of about 60 artists and arts boosters listened intently as the vision unfolded.

Before moderator and AE board member David Wagner opened the high-energy meeting, AE President Mary Buskirk said the occasion's point was to help fashion a proposal to the Fort Ord Task Force which has been studying future uses of that area. The document must be researched, written and submitted within three weeks in order to meet the Task Force time limit, she said.

Opinions sought

"This (panel) represents an effort to find out what kind of community support exists," Buskirk continued. "We want to involve more of our community than just Artists Equity people. The board includes members from Carmel, Pacific Grove, this entire area. We'd like the widest possible range of opinions."

Toward that end, all those attending the Wednesday night session got the same questionnaire that had been mailed to AE's full roster (160 individuals). Addressed therein were such questions as whether respondents wished artist's community involvement at Fort Ord, studio and living space needs, what could be paid monthly for an "ideal" space.

Responses would be considered along with "what we hear tonight," Buskirk said. "And then we'll write the proposal."

Asked if he thought such a plan could win Task Force favor, Wagner replied: "If we have support from the artistic community, there's a chance. If we don't have it, why should they bother?"

It was stressed that the notion meant to serve not just visual artists, but poets, actors, musicians and dancers too. AE board member Gloria C. Mattos-Hughes said: "We hope to tack onto a health or educational agency and get a lease for 50 or 99 years. That way, we wouldn't have to buy property. Rents wouldn't be for profit. We would charge just enough to maintain the area."

Experts present

Panelists with Wagner were John Jones, an engineer who'd examined Fort Ord buildings for AE and Monterey County Cultural Council; Bob Abinante, president of the non-profit unit planning the Monterey Bay Center for the Arts; David Cloutier, the County Cultural Council's executive director; Joe Cavanaugh, the county's chief administrative analyst for intergovernmental affairs; Suzanne Katzakian and Judie Winslow, artists who'd researched gallery/living space in Sand City.

Wagner, described by Buskirk as "the sparkplug," said he became aware of the Task Force deadline on proposals just recently. And then: "We may be able to establish an Arts Park on Fort Ord land if we move swiftly and decisively." Another term he used was "arts village."

The means of getting the acreage, Wagner added, was "public benefit conveyance." He said the drive might align with the proposed San Jose State University campus or Department of the Interior. He cited "the East Garrison between Marina and Salinas," and said that — along with studios, offices, rehearsal space, classrooms, storage areas, so on — the project could result in "low-income dwellings" and perhaps "house the homeless and migrant workers nearby."

Abinante said various groups had studied Monterey Bay arts center variations for 30 years. "We're exploring the possibility of working with San Jose State University," he added.

Buskirk said progress reports and a copy of the proposal would be given to The Pine Cone.

Post Ranch offers tranquility

By SUSAN BECK

BIG SUR'S Post Ranch Inn is not just another hotel. It's an environmental statement.

It's simplicity is the essence of tranquility, and succinctly put by G. K. "Mickey" Muennig, architect for the 30-unit inn, he said, "It feels great. I do mostly homes in Big Sur working in harmony with nature and respecting it as much as you can."

Muennig lived in the woods on site to find out where to put each unit that would best suit the environment.

"It goes piece by piece. Working with the trees available. We didn't cut any trees. Instead there are tree-house rooms that fit into resultant space between trees."

The natural materials used at Post Ranch are India raja slate, cor-ten steel, glass and mostly redwood.

"The natural materials make the place warm, even the steel when used in the right proportions and areas. People are beginning to become aware of the ecological movements that is happening. The earth is getting over populated and it's important to respect the nature that is around. The idea is to get back to nature," said Muennig.

Visiting Post Ranch one gets the feeling of being in a comfortable home, even though all of the units are separate. Muennig has never designed a hotel before, but the eight year project is a testimony to working with nature.

Especially inviting is the Sierra Mar Restaurant named after a restaurant built in 1945 by the Post family and run by Mary Post. It is comfortable, quiet, and unpretentious.

held April 23. A gathering of Big Sur residents and descendants of pioneer families shared heartfelt memories of the woman that comforted so many.

Her brother, Billy Post, was caught in a flood of emotion as he talked about his sister and her tireless endeavors. He is the great grandson of Big Sur 1800's pioneer and original Post Ranch property settler William Brainard Post.

All of the units are named after oldtimers from Big Sur, and many guests were staying for the weekend in rooms bearing the name of their grandparents.

Co-owners, Myles Williams and Freed have and are continuing to direct the project in a very personal fashion. Neither of them have any experience in building or taking care of a hotel.

"This is an example for others. We followed all the guidelines set by the county. We are partners, not developers," said Freed.

Williams agrees that Post Ranch Inn is something to think about for future development anywhere.

The hotel was open to local residents throughout April and the response was so overwhelming that the new owners have decided to extend the invitation through May so that anyone who wants to stay has a chance to do so.

Speaker Nunn says cooperation key to coastal preservation

By PAUL WOLF

IT SHOULD not be the concern of any one city to protect the coastline, but rather a concerted effort of a number of communities.

That, in short, was the key message conveyed by Bud Nunn, a Pacific Grove council member, who spoke Thursday, April 23, before about 35 members of the Carmel Residents Association.

In "Saving Our Precious Coastal Towns, Nunn urged, somewhat cryptically, that, "We need to take a broader perspective (of coastal preservation) both in space and time."

More specifically, in space, since the shoreline is no town's private treasure; in time, since the people of today must consider what they are passing on.

Lately, Nunn has been thought of mainly in the context of Rocky Shores, the 5.5-acre beachfront land his city is desperately trying to turn into public open space. (See related stories.)

Nunn is past president of the Association of Monterey Bay Area Governments (AMBAG), which has been a key player in the Monterey Bay Sanctuary movement.

Batch of resolutions

Coastal preservation has always been on a front burner of Nunn's political involvements.

In 1989, he sponsored a Pacific Grove City Council resolution calling for the protection of existing undeveloped beachfront in the Central Coast. Other councils, like Carmel, Monterey and Del Rey Oaks followed suit, passing similar resolutions.

Nunn has been active in the drive to keep Fort Ord coast undeveloped after the army pulls out, regardless of what may happen on the (soon-to-be) former army property located inland.

Nunn did make sure, however, to say a few words about Fort Ord: "It looks like a land grab that makes the '49ners' gold rush look like a tea party."

In all, the evening was less of a pep talk than it was a meeting of like minds, as his positions touched a chord with his CRA audience.

And there was a note of recognition when he lamented how environmentalists are perceived despite all the pretenses of the 1990s being "The Environmental Decade," and George Bush, "The Environmental President."

Environmentalists, he said, are seen as "meddlers, obstructionists and no-growthers."

Before the evening was up, Nunn would take some political stands too, especially on the issue of water.

When someone from the audience asked if Carmel "could expect to see one drop of water" from the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District's planned new dam and desalination plant, Nunn asked in return, rhetorically, "Does Carmel really need more water?"

He made an assumption — "water is a natural control on growth" and bolstering water supplies often induces growth. So, is more growth desirable? he asked.

"I think the proposal to have a dam plus desal needs closer scrutiny," Nunn said.

The councilman was critical of the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District's allotting water for development from the new harvest of the Paralta Well. "It guarantees there will be another drought, which will be similar and worse."

Carmel citizens join effort to raise money for shoreline preservation

ested in Rocky Shores as Pacific Grove resident are. Not only is there the Carmel Friends group, but a Carmel woman is planning an art auction to benefit Rocky Shores. The June 7 event will be called the Serendipity Auction, and it will be held at the Sally Judd Griffin building in PG. The Carmel Friends group is co-sponsoring the event.

As a possible indication, before PG Councilman Bud Nunn appeared April 23 for a talk before the Carmel Residents (See related story.) he jokingly promised that he would try not to talk too much about his favorite topic, Rocky Shores, thinking it would bore his audience. Yet by the time the question-and-answer period rolled around, nearly everyone every question concerned the subject.

The seven-lot, 5.5-acre property is located north of Asilomar State Beach, south of the Lighthouse Reservation and west of Sunset Drive. The Committee to Preserve Rocky Shores is about $300,000 short of raising funds needed for the Monterey Peninsula Regional Park District to wrap up a four-lot, $2.1 million purchase by a June 30 deadline.

While contributions are for $100 for Carmel's group, contributions are for $1,000 for PG's "400 Club." So far, $17,000 has been raised by the club, and another $8,000 has been promised, according to Bud Nunn, chairman of the Committee to Preserve Rocky Shores.

Since $1,000 is a lot of money, what many have done is band together and join as a group. In fact, the eight members of the committee have contributed $125 each, together making $1,000.

Nunn described the formation of the new group as fulfilling the promise of coastal preservation as a regional, rather than a municipal, concern. "It reinforces the idea that places like Rocky Shores don't belong to just the city where it exists," he said.

Packard donation

In a related development, the Packard Foundation has pledged $40,000 to the Rocky Shores Preservation Fund, the largest private donation of the roughly $1.8 million raised so far, consisting almost entirely of government contributions.

REMEMBER
MOTHER'S DAY
ON MAY 10TH

Would you have forecast this 10 years ago?

By 1992, the most preferred financial institutions would be Credit Unions!

It's true ... for one reason. Savings, Checking, Credit Cards and Loans are better values at a Credit Union ... earning more and/or costing less than elsewhere. For another increasingly important reason ... deposit safety. The strongest, most solidly backed federal insurance fund by far is the National Credit Union Share Insurance Fund.

Today, there are more than 25,000 Member/Owners of Monterey Federal Credit Union. Local ownership of a major financial institution can mean many advantages for you ... better rates, lower costs, quick response and personal attention to your needs. If you live or work on the Monterey Peninsula, call or visit Monterey Federal and find out all the ways you can benefit.

To the underdog

IN JOHN Steinbeck's story, The Raid, Dick, a union organizer, offers these words of encouragement to his teenage companion Root as they nervously await a midnight confrontation with an angry mob.

The boy has confessed he's afraid.

"If somebody busts you, it ain't you he's bustin' - it's the system." Dick says it over and over, "Remember, it's not them, it's the system."

Root faces the mob and is beaten unconscious. As he wakes up the next morning in a hospital bed he knows he stood up for what he believed in.

Bringing Literature to Life

Carmel resident Cheryl Joseph is an English instructor at Seaside High School. She's teaching senior class World Literature this semester and recently assigned John Steinbeck's The Raid to her students.

Joseph knows that for many young people in this multi-sensory world a book is nothing more than words on a page. She does everything she can to make to reveal the lessons of life literature holds but like teachers throughout California, she also struggles with the daily reality of improvising learning situations with meager fiscal support.

Her written proposal to bring literature to life through film and live performance in the classroom had been buried for seven months in the educational bureaucracy when Joseph approached Steve Rosen and Terry DeBono, owners of Mac & Ava Motion Picture Productions in Monterey.

Together, they planned a unique test program for the Seaside High's World Lit students. Mac & Ava has produced three Steinbeck stories, Molly Morgan, The Chrysanthemums, and The Raid, taking care to stay as true to the original manuscripts as possible. No strangers to educational programs (they have a "Film Maker in the Schools" series among their credits) Rosen and DeBono agreed to collaborate with Joseph on a test project.

Steinbeck Lives

They set up a screening of The Raid for the class but added another dimension. They brought Steinbeck to life to tell why he wrote the story of a young man who knew he was an underdog but met his adversaries with gallantry and courage.

Taelen Thomas portrayed Steinbeck, with a clipped mustache and cigarette dangling from his lip. As Steinbeck, he told the class he hated to read until he discovered Mallory's Morte d'Arthur and said he had always found greatness of heart in the commonest people.

The students posed questions:

"Why do you write so long in your descriptions?"

"I love detail. I respect every breath and like to see the process of events unfolding."

"What inspired you to write The Raid?"

From behind his dark glasses Steinbeck replied, "The example of the underdog showing gallantry, class and courage. I want readers to find themselves in my writing."

Cooperation, Collaboration

A dark haired girl spoke up, "Kids today want to stand up for what they believe in but we need someone to help us."

Joseph, Rosen and DeBono are doing what they can. They feel their pilot program is the answer to the educational wasteland our children are facing but their program can't survive without funding. The answer lies in cooperation and collaboration. If more teachers reach out of the educational system and form partnerships with professionals as Joseph, Rosen and De Bono have done and more philanthropic organizations dedicate funds to local schools perhaps public education won't be the underdog it is today.

CANNERY ROW REVISITED

Cannery Row, as Steinbeck knew it, is the site of the second annual "Writer-To-Writer Retreat" sponsored by the Monterey/Santa Cruz chapter of the National Writer's Union. Headquartered at Kalisa's La Ida Cafe, the day-long retreat features panels on poetry, screenwriting, writing for children and public relations writing. A few of the featured panelists include authors Shirley Holt, and Leslie Tryon, screenwriter Richard Outten and public relations expert Karen Hunter. In addition, Bruce and Jean Ariss, a local couple known for their artistic and literary accomplishments and personal friendship with John Steinbeck will conduct a behind-the-

Local schools boast fewer dropouts

is that students need to be educated."

She added that compared to the 1960s and 1970s, school administration holds a tighter rein on all aspects of discipline, including attendance. "We have a tight attendance policy. Fifteen days of excused or unexcused absences from school and a student can be dropped from class."

Ishida believes the school's providing more flexibility for students may be helping students to stay in school.

"By going from six to seven periods, we extended the day by 20 minutes. In that additional time there is more flexibility and more choices for students."

One thing the school is trying to do is create different approaches to the student-teacher learning relationship, said Ishida.

"Many teachers are voluntarily offering time to teach mini-classes. The classes are from one to nine weeks. For example, a popular one is the science-photo class. Students walk through Hatton Canyon and either study it from a scientific or photographic approach, or both."

Karl Black, the new principal at PGHS, considers the less than 1 percent dropout rate at the high school over the past five years "really good news."

"I went to a school in San Jose that had one of the lowest dropout rates in the district, and that was still 14 percent."

The school system is focusing on alternatives for students who are not making it in "this system we call high school. Not all kids fit into it. Fortunately, they have someplace else to go."

No place to go

Forty years ago, said Black, children who didn't want to go to school could work in the local drug store or on the farm. But, 20 years ago there was no place to go, "no place to drop in to."

Once again students have a place to go outside of the traditional school system, but now instead of entering the working world prematurely young adults can earn a degree through independent studies, continuation school, adult school or the regional occupational program.

"There are a lot more programs for kids now," said Black. "In our community for the large part, parents are highly educated and know the value of an education. Kids know if they want to get anywhere they have to be educated because now there is global competition."

"I'm going to do everything I can to eliminate even the 1 percent. Why not offer something for everyone?"

Alternative education

Carmel Valley High School is an alternative school. Principal Blake Fuessenich said the dropout rate is also less than 1 percent with about 100 students attending each year.

"I think what happens is that the students can get credit here faster, and they enjoy the freedom," said Fuessenich. He added that students rarely return to the local comprehensive high schools, but instead will choose to go on to Monterey Peninsula College, test for a General Education Diploma, or try to pass the California high school proficiency program.

Doris Day's Best Friends

By Doris Day

For Zipper

ONCE UPON a time there was a magnificent and truly remarkable dog, a German shepherd named Zipper.

Zip got off to an unhappy start in this life because of a brutal master who neglected him and beat him. But all the unkindness and cruelty didn't destroy his wondrous spirit, and although he bore physical reminders of his unfortunate past, his sweet and loving essence came shining through.

Zipper was three weeks old when he was rescued and brought to the DDPF, and it was obvious to us that he must be placed in the most perfect home. Our prayers were answered when Kay Duncan called — and I wish there were words to describe this fabulous lady, but there aren't. She would be any child's "dream" grandma; any adult's choice as a kind, loving and wise friend and confidante.

Kay and Zip were companions for five years. She delighted in his progress as he settled in and became her adored Best Friend. His favorite sport was chasing tennis balls, and every visitor to his home had to spend some time with Zipper before getting down to some serious chatting with Kay.

All went well until a few weeks ago when Kay began to suspect something was wrong. Zipper didn't eat his meals with his usual gusto and his appetite rapidly declined. After several tests and consultations with his veterinarian, Kay's worst fear was confirmed — Zip had inoperable cancer.

As his condition worsened, Kay had to face the fact that she was losing her Best Friend. Dogs are truly remarkable creatures and their desire to please their masters seems to continue to their very last breath. Although Zip was barely able to eat a small bit of baby food each day, he still managed to wag his tail and let Kay know he was willing to play ball. When he could no longer eat, Kay knew it was time to let him go with the same love and affection he'd shown her all those years.

Zip is gone now, but his memory lives with all of us who knew and adored him. His sweet spirit lingers in the beautiful home he loved so much, and it won't be the same without him.

(Written in collaboration with Judy Ruby, director, Doris Day-Pet Foundation, Los Angeles).

The perils of being a senior

SPRING HAS definitely sprung at Carmel High School and has brought senioritis with it. The legendary "disease" plagues many in the senior class up on the hill.

Senioritis has become more intense with the beautiful, warm weather, but seniors were showing signs of senioritis before spring break. For Karena Shannon, senioritis reared its ugly head at the beginning of the second semester in January, while Erica Murray's started after basketball season ended.

"I've had it (senioritis) since freshman year," laughed Chris Wagy, while Katie Winslow's "symptoms" only appeared after Christmas vacation.

Seniors have been affected by senioritis in a variety of ways.

Mike Zury's senioritis has been getting progressively worse since the end of the first semester. "I've been having a lot more fun, although my grades have suffered a little," he explained.

Katie Winslow said that senioritis "made me sometimes say 'what the heck' and not go to class or not do my homework. Instead of studying, I'll do 'fun' stuff."

Erica Murray stated that senioritis "made me appreciate the weekends much more than I have in the past."

"I did pretty well gradewise first semester," Sean Woolley confided, "but this last week I didn't do so well on a couple of tests because I couldn't bring myself to study."

Karena Shannon explained, "I've gotten a lot more sleep and I'm having a lot of fun. My grades have dropped a little, but they're still pretty good."

Seniors still have quite a bit on their calendars to help ease senioritis. The prom is only days away with the Disneyland Grad Nite trip not too far behind. The last class/family picnic and the baccalaureate fill the final days of May.

On June 12, Graduation Day, seniors can celebrate their graduation at the graduation breakfast and Casino Nite.

The only cure for senioritis seems to be graduation!

Carmel Valley Outlook

KSK says Carmel Valley leads the way

By SUSAN BECK

IN MANY ways, Carmel Valley sets the tone for Monterey County politics.

That was 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman's theme as she spoke to the Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce at Rancho Canada April 24.

"The issues, political problems, and perspective with respect to the land, environment, history, and scenery make Carmel Valley rightfully a real leader on environmental matters," said Strasser Kauffman.

"The strict rules in the Carmel Valley Master Plan are a good example for other areas in the county. Most issues are ultimately Monterey County issues, for example, water, septic, traffic, air, and funding."

Major problems

Three major problems will impact the county including the valley, said Strasser Kauffman.

First, the county budget is $278 million and is balanced: "But don't take that for granted. It's an excruciating effort for the board. To adopt a balanced budget requires saying no to a lot of good and necessary things, and it's difficult for me to let some things go. I'm hard headed, but soft hearted."

She said that for every billion dollars the state loses, the county loses $1 million. There is $6 million less this year, and you either cut expenses or increase revenue. "We made some serious cuts. We can't put any more tax burdens on the people in the county."

One major cut was a hiring freeze throughout the county system. Each department was asked to cut back 25 percent.

"This will have an effect on service delivery in Carmel Valley as well as the other areas of the county," said Strasser Kauffman.

The second major issue is Fort Ord. Before, she said, the focus was planning for the reduction of Fort Ord. Now the focus is planning for the future. It's a large piece of land, and like any other on the peninsula, requires extensive studying.

Initiated meetings

"I've initiated inter-departmental county meetings to look at Fort Ord territories in Monterey County, however, massive planning will take several years. The

Easter fun in Carmel Valley

THE EIGHT Annual Easter potluck and horseshoe tournament at the Carmel Valley home of Lorraine Arrendondo was, again, a huge success and fun for all. Easter bunny Damon Maggiore made his appearance for the egg hunt. The day's activities also included a coloring contest for the kids, live music provided by Doug Wood of the group "Wildwood," and a lively horseshoe tournament won by the team of Bob Moore and Chris Romis. Barbequed turkey, an array of buffet treats and plenty of sun rounded out a perfect day. A great tradition, Lorraine.

county has to get its own house in order first. There are lots of problems. For instance, there is no water allocated to be used in the unincorporated areas of Fort Ord," said Strasser Kauffman.

She said that the existing water at Fort Ord comes from wells on the property. In the future the water will come from Salinas.

Third issue

Thirdly, she said redistricting every 10 years to facilitate a one person, one vote policy, is very hard in Monterey County because the population is so spread out. "However, under the federal Voting Rights Act, Majority Minorities such as the Latino population in the eastern part of the county have to be given adequate representation."

She said the new redistricting map will be almost the same for the Fifth District, with the exception of dropping half of Monterey and adding Marina.

"In the past, no one asked which district Fort Ord fit into, but now, obviously, whatever happens at Fort Ord will have repercussions such as traffic, water, environment, and the economy elsewhere."

The redistricting map is up before the Department of Justice for approval.

ILLEENE CRANE-FRANKS, vice president of CAPOA is actively involved with diverse issues in Cachagua.

Cachagua land owners unite for common goals

by Illeene Crane-Franks,
Vice President,
Cachagua Area Property Owners Association

WHAT DO water rights, fire protection, the Sheriff's Advisory Council, and Carmel Valley Road improvements and funding have in common? Why, the Cachagua Area Property Owners Association (CAPOA), of course! On the second Thursday of each month, members of the Cachagua community meet at the AT&T Earth Station, listen to a guest speaker, and discuss issues affecting life in the Cachagua area.

The Cachagua Planning Area, as defined by Monterey County, covers 212 square miles and takes in such regions as Sleepy Hollow, Jamesburg, Arroyo Seco, Cachagua Road, and the Carmel Valley Road corridor. CAPOA members vote for representatives from the different regions in the planning area. Together with the officers, these representatives constitute CAPOA's Board of Directors.

Diverse issues

Since its inception in 1989, CAPOA (a California nonprofit corporation) has promoted such diverse issues as a new fire district for Cachagua, safety improvements on Tassajara and Cachagua Roads, participation in the annual Cachagua Country Faire, the Cachagua Community Park, and education of the locals in the complex laws pertaining to water rights. April's meeting featured guest speaker Roger Williams, President of the FIFTH DISTRICT Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman thanked the Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce recently for their continued support.

Sheriff's Advisory Council, and its two offshoots, the Search and Rescue group and the Sheriff's Emergency Assistance Team.

May and June meetings will offer a public forum co-sponsored with the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association, discussing improvements and funding for Carmel Valley Road. Monterey County Public Works staff have identified much of Cachagua as benefitting from use of the lower Carmel Valley Road, and it is clear Cachagua residents will be included in whatever final plan is decided upon by the Board of Supervisors.

Guest speaker

July's meeting will feature Bill Barker as guest speaker. Barker is head of the Monterey County Farm Bureau and will be a contender for the Fifth District Supervisorial seat some time in the future. Nanci Lambert, this year's President of CAPOA, identifies two issues as being the most important to Cachagua: Carmel Valley Road and water rights. "Carmel Valley Road is vitally important to Cachagua. We don't want to be penalized by exorbitant building fees. I would rather see a smaller fee spread out to everyone."

As far as the water issue, Nanci feels "It's important to have our say." Nanci thinks it is a mistake for the State Water Resources Control Board not to hold at least one local hearing on the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District's application to appropriate water rights on the Carmel River. "I don't think we're getting a straight scoop from Sacramento. Water was the issue that brought people together in the Cachagua and started CAPOA", Nanci notes.

Open burn season ends

The Open Burn Season in Monterey County will end on Thursday, April 30.

The change affects both backyard home burning, and the burning of cleared wood and brush for commercial or home developments.

Other than barbecues, recreational fires and fireplaces, anyone wishing to burn must still get permission from their local fire agency.

For the 24-hour Burn Day status report, call 1-800-225-BURN (1-800-225-2876) or call your local fire department. For additional information on open burning in the tri-county area call 647-9411.

Big winnings for youth center

WHAT AN incredible evening April 25 was! It seemed that all of Carmel Valley turned out for the 10th annual Monte Carlo Night at Hidden Valley Music Seminars. People came from as far as Beverly Hills and Saratoga for the event that raised approximately $10,000 for the Carmel Valley Community Youth Center.

A big hand is in order for Judy Harrold, chairperson, who worked for months organizing the event. Many heartfelt thanks and raves for the scrumptious buffet organized by Nikki Kilzer and Lucy Morris. Applause, applause to Elyse Battey and her crew of gorgeous lady bartenders including Sandy Utegaard, Rene Hoag, and Shelly Scanlon.

Fantastic event

Hurray for the decorations which made Hidden Valley become a French Casino with a little help from Judy Glanville and friends. Just as always for the past 10 years, the board members threw themselves into making this the fantastic event of the year. Special thanks to Kate McAnaney, Marleny Mancebo, Jim Corso, Nick Craft, Troy Hussey, Patty Armstrong, Pam Stearns, Tony Glanville, Bill Tarp, Beth Lawn Rick and Bonnie Simms, Trisha Taylor, Alice Kinsler, Brian McCoy, Carlos Sabatini, and David Lyon.

Monte Carlo would not possess that special magic without Holly Decker running through the crowds every 15 minutes awarding prizes to the lucky winners at each table. Holly has not missed working one Monte Carlo Night in 10 years and it simply would not run as smoothly without her.

Mucho appreciation to Peter Meckle who donates fabulous Hidden Valley Music Seminars every year...what would we do without your generosity? Don Corona Sr. and Jr. are faithfully on hand to blast great sounds which gives the evening that special sense of excitement!

Tremendous thanks are in order for all the community volunteers who helped make this such a special night, including Marli Melton, May Kitagawa, Jackie Menke, Diane and Ron Scholl, Marcia Wall, Remy Ryan, Laura Locke, Dennis and Robin Boelhje, Sue Pecciante, Leslie Call, Lupe Alonzo, and Carol Covell.

The most important part of Monte Carlo is the sponsorship from businesses throughout the community. It simply would be impossible for this event to take place without their incredible generosity. Year after year we come to them and they happily give back to the community who supports them. It is truly awesome to think that 180 businesses contributed prizes and 10 people sponsored gaming tables. When you tally the numbers of people involved to make this event magically appear, the list is over 300 people! Now, that's what I call community involvement!

Warm thanks

The Carmel Valley Community Youth Center Board of Directors and I want to thank each and every one of you from the bottoms of our hearts. Without you, we could not put on Santa's Fly-In, Music In The Park, Surfin' Safari, swim lessons, recreational swim, classes, Monte Carlo Night, as well as a myriad of other activities throughout the year. You are simply the best and we will encourage everyone on the Monterey Peninsula to patronize YOUR businesses. A special thanks to Merv Griffin and the Carmel Plaza for their remarkably generous donations. Thank you for making everyone involved in Monte Carlo Night a WINNER!

Venturing north to Fleur de Lys

ON SATURDAY, April 11, I awakened at the crack of dawn to drive up to San Francisco to watch Hubert Keller perform his magic at the famed Fleur de Lys restaurant (777 Sutter St.) which he co-owns with Maurice Rouas.

About 15 of us gathered in his spotless stainless steel kitchen, decorated with a few of the marvelous European hand-hammered heavy copper pots, and were immediately given a glass of Veuve Clicquot Champagne, coffee or bottled water to quench our thirst. We proceeded to watch this culinary artist prepare a tantalizing three course meal of Thinly Sliced Salmon and Beluga Caviar on a Mustard Seed Sauce; Boneless Chicken Breast rolled over Wild Mushrooms and Spinach Leaves, served with a Hazelnut Flavored Sauce, and finally a wicked Bittersweet Chocolate Creme Brulee with Caramelized Bananas.

Thank goodness we did get to sit down afterward and indulge ourselves in this opulent and romantic atmosphere. Caymus Winery paired their wines with the courses. We tried a couple of wines with each course and all seemed to work well.

A family of patissiers

To give you a little background on Hubert, he was born into a family of patissiers in the Alsatian wine village of Ribeauville. He received a diploma from the Hotel School in Strasbourg, and began his professional training at the three-star French restaurant, L'Auberge de L'ill under chef/owner Paul Haerberlin. After four years there, Keller continued his education in the renowned kitchens of chefs such as Paul Bocuse and Gaston Lenotre.

His career was launched in Provence at the Moulin de Mougins where Roger Verge selected him as Chef Saucier. From there he became sous-chef for Jacques Maximin at the Hotel Negresco in Nice on the French Riviera. He subsequently assumed the position of Chef de Cuisine at Le Prieure in Saumur, during which time the restaurant earned a Michelin Star. Roger Verge called upon Keller's talent again to exercise during a period of two years as executive chef for "la Cuisine du Soleil" in Sao Paulo, Brazil and thereafter at Sutter 500 in San Francisco between 1982-1986 prior to joining Fleur de Lys in August 1986. Esquire magazine picked Fleur de Lys as their pick of the year, the New York Times said it was the top French dining in San Francisco, along with similar responses by Food & Wine magazine and Gault Millau.

Impressive technique

I was impressed with his techniques in creating healthy and lower calorie dishes. Even though many of us thumb through all the cooking magazines and watch the various TV cooking shows, it never ceases to amaze me that everyone has their own style and one always sees something new. I will give you a synopsis of the salmon and the chicken along with the complete recipe for the creme brulee.

The salmon was fabulous; it was his presentations that made it unique and that is sometimes hard to illustrate in the written word. I found it interesting to see that he sprayed a sheet pan with water, then salt and peppered the pan and put the 1/4-1/2 inch salmon filet on the pan, misted it again with a little water and then broiled the fish for about 30 seconds. It was perfect, melted in the mouth and very low calorie too.

Chicken breast dish

The chicken breast preparation fascinated me because the chicken cooked so quickly in its own juices. This is the gist of the recipe — remove the skin and the tendons from the chicken breasts and discard. Flatten each breast lightly with a large knife. Season the filets on both sides, and top them with a tablespoon of wild mushrooms and an equal amount of wilted spinach.

Then tightly roll each breast in a 10-inch square plastic wrap, looking like a sausage, being sure to knot each end very tightly. Bring half a gallon of water to a boil. Add a cube of chicken base. Reduce the heat to a simmer and slowly lower the chicken breasts into the stock. Poach them for about 10 to 12 minutes. Remove the breasts from the stock and keep them warm.

For the sauce reduce chicken stock (preferably homemade) to 4 oz., add the port wine and whisk in 2 oz. of butter, a few pieces at a time, stir in salt and pepper to taste and 2 oz. of hazelnut oil. Remove the chicken breasts from the plastic film and slice the breasts on the bias and serve them with the hazelnut flavored sauce.

Bittersweet Chocolate Creme Brulee with Caramelized Bananas

This irresistible dessert serves six 4-oz. portions and Hubert says its easy, inexpensive and takes about 60 minutes to make.

Ingredients: 5 egg yolks,

3 and 1/2 oz. bittersweet chocolate, chopped into small pieces, 2 and 1/2 oz.

granulated sugar, 5 oz. milk, 12 oz. cream, 2 and 1/2 oz. golden brown sugar, 4 bananas.

Preparation: Bring the milk and the cream mixed together to a boil. Add the chopped chocolate into this mixture, set aside for 5 minutes. In a mixing bowl, beat the egg yolks with the granulated sugar. Continue whipping the egg mixture while pouring in the chocolate mixture. Let cool down. Prepare 5 oz. round molds or soup bowls and pour in each 4 oz. of the chocolate brulee mixture. Poach in a bain marie in the oven at 275 degrees F for about 40 minutes.

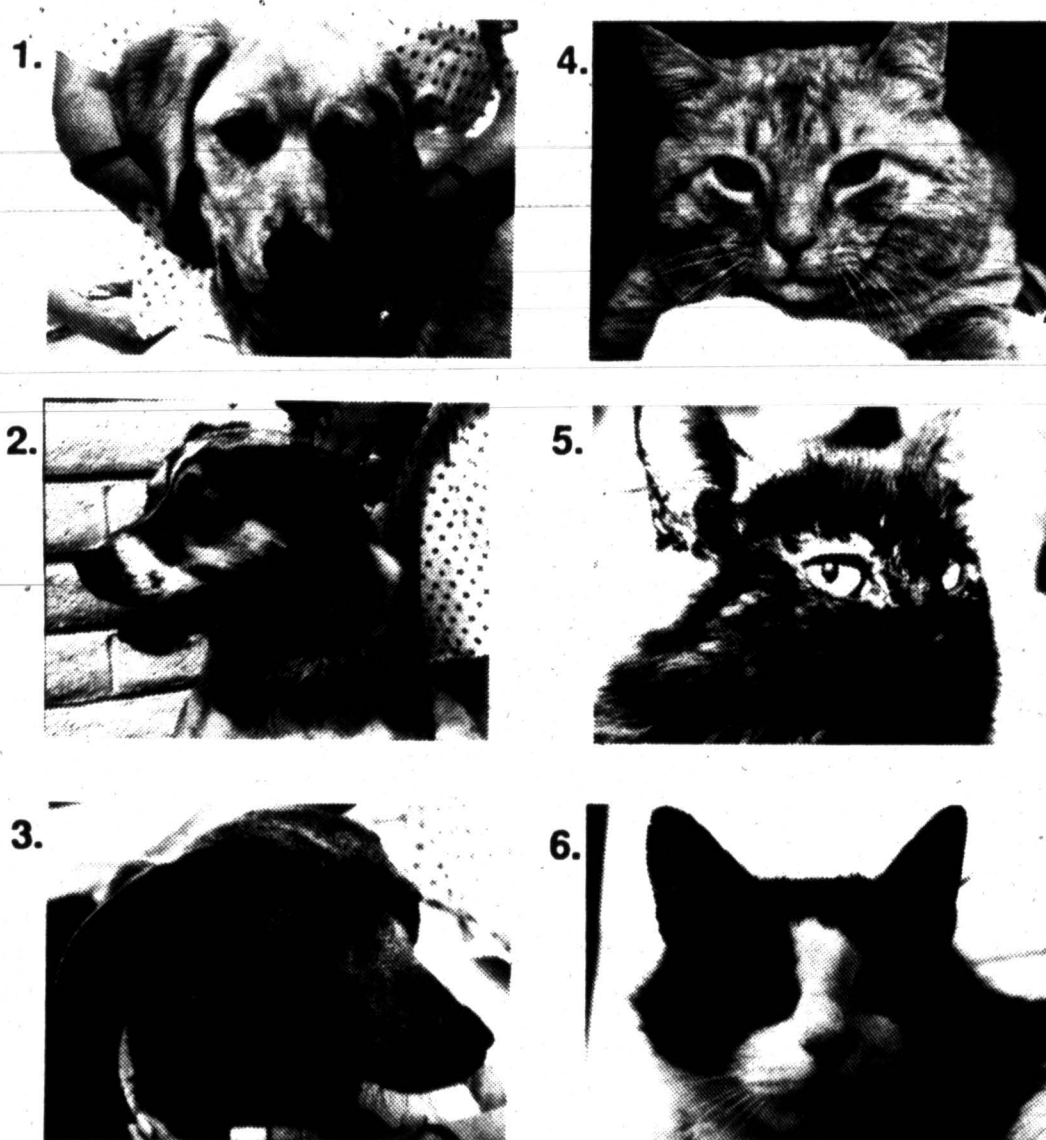

When the creme brulees are poached, transfer them on a sheet pan and let cool down. Decorate the top of each one with five or six slices of bananas. Sprinkle with golden brown sugar and broil the creme brulees under the salamander, broiler (or one of the those butane burners that Julia Child demonstrates with), until the sugar melts and turns into a golden caramel color.

This course was put on by the Northern California Center for the Culinary Arts (San Francisco). Peter Handy, director, has a series of classes held in the Bay Area's finest restaurants. For further information on classes, call (415) 397-7345.

Alcohol: The Liquid Playground

DO YOU know someone you love with a low tolerance level, prone to anxiety, who exaggerates his self-importance to cover up feelings of low self-esteem? A perfectionist (Virgo), who sets unrealistic goals resulting in failure (Saturn), then guilt (Pluto)? Are you a wishful thinker; do you isolate yourself, unable to form close relationships; are you oversensitive, impulsive, defiant? And, do you feel like you are physically and emotionally decaying inside (Neptune)?

Dependence on alcohol makes unreasonable demands on others. The alcoholic expects the loved one (Neptune-Venus) to provide a never-ending supply of all his needs, including prestige and security. His dependency is a form of demand and possession as he seeks to control all of the people and circumstances in his life. If his terrorist-type demands are not met, he becomes depressed and feels sorry for himself and rejects you. Emotional abuse (Venus-Neptune).

Alcoholic personality

No planet is more characteristic of "the alcoholic" personality than NEPTUNE, which is nameless fears, free-floating anxiety and especially denial. Dependence, oversensitivity and isolation all belong to Neptune, and in his dependence, the alcoholic writes the script for his life and yours (Mercury-Saturn in square, Qcx, Opposition), and all are supposed to read their lines.

If you decide you want to write "your own" script, expect a colossal temper tantrum (Mars in Aries) to erupt, and don't expect him to sit down and discuss a problem. Instead be prepared for him to be resentful, to rationalize his drinking. Uranus (badly aspected) brings in sudden rebellion, defiance, anger and impatience at its lowest levels.

The alcoholic can't and won't stay in a situation he can't control, which creates discomfort — called reality — because for him his reflex is quick decisions and action, bulldozing (Pluto opposite, Qcx, square Mercury) ahead without considering the results, creating still bigger obstacles.

Suffering from eternal restlessness, he won't accept the fact that he is limited (Saturn), and unstoppable, he seeks adventure, thrill seeking, a roller coaster life, especially if it's affordable, which only carries him in a circle. Inwardly he is immature and suffers the need to do everything in a hurry. He's the unstoppable king.

If he has an abundance of money, there is the need to live fast, think fast, drive fast, feel fast, and act fast. His employees become his pawns, and after all in today's economy what better seduction than money can support his habits?

Beware, he has big plans and schemes that don't match his ability to produce. He can never just let life evolve in a natural way, because he does not stay put long enough to work out his destiny (natal chart) in the here and now due to being out there. Makes you wonder about guys like Adolf Hitler and Saddam Hussein, doesn't it? I've often wondered why we "outlaw" drugs but legalize alcohol. What's the answer?

No positives

Pure alcohol (Neptune) does nothing positive. Once it hits the stomach, it smashes into the central nervous system, screws up the wiring, changes the mental functions. Then the liver is destroyed when it works overtime trying to neutralize the alcohol by breaking down its composition. Heavy drinking triggers scarring of the liver, the pancreas and gastro-intestinal reactions, as well as mental and emotional problems. It eventually forces the loss of huge amounts of magnesium from the body, adds to nervous tension and finally destroys the brain cells and they don't grow back! When the liver can't work to keep up with the intake, that's it. B-vitamins in mega-doses support the liver and can for a time help the body process the alcohol, but it's a thin line for bargaining.

A disease

One does not have to drink a fifth of scotch the way I did 19 years ago (that's how long I'm recovered), to be an alcoholic. Alcoholism is a disease and a blood disorder. What many people don't realize is that the drinker is really triggered by hypoglycemia and pre-diabetic tendencies. Alcohol is the quickest way to get sugar into the bloodstream. Also, the adrenal glands (ruled by Mars) when stressed out from alcohol transfer to the pancreas, and hypoglycemia or diabetes will occur.

Common astrological signatures of the alcoholic are the presence of Virgo planets (rules the pancreas), also its opposite sign of Pisces. The Moon in Virgo is very high in research charts; they are touchy, sensitive — the perfectionist, the good little girl or boy who is both demanding, critical both of self and others.

Planets in Scorpio, especially Mars, the Ascendant, the Mid-heaven, overestimate their own strength and abilities. Scorpio and planets in the 8th tend to be selfish and have this urge for power. Moon-Uranus aspects and transits show emotional eccentricity, crave sensation, are restless and like to magnify things out of proportion. Pluto-Mercury folks can be mentally obsessive.

What about recovery? Not until the E.G.O. (easing God out of your life) is surrendered to a higher power can peace and quiet dwell in the soul. Spiritual experiences bring about instant personality change, like when my mother died, and sometimes it takes a "tragedy" to shake one into reality. It did me!

The planets Uranus, Neptune and Pluto bring transformation along with Saturn — the power planets capable of smashing the ego. Crisis situations offer the opportunity to change, and sometimes you have to let the one you love fall flat on his face, hit bottom with a thud, and watch.

Probability of alcoholism

But in the end, you decide to live or die. When my blood sugar hit 550 (750) is comatose, that and my Mom's death was enough to shake up my world. The most common aspect in the chart of an alcoholic is a Sun-Neptune square, opposition, QCX. If I see it in the chart of a child, I feel it needs to be pointed out to the parents the probability of addiction to alcohol. I can't stress enough the importance of that child's diet, without sugar.

Moon-Mars transits trigger the alcoholic, especially in cardinal signs, like Aries, Cancer, Libra and Capricorn, but even Pisces, and next month Mars goes into Aries on May 6, where it will stay until June 14.

What about the loved one? Remove yourself from the problem. Alcoholics are accomplished manipulators who have developed powerful control over others; his skills are honed to a fine blade that can cut you to pieces. You're not dealing with an amateur.

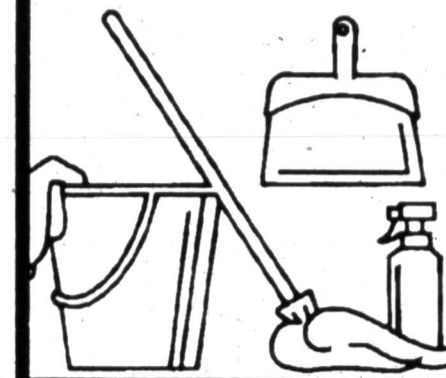

Family protects him all too often, bails him out of jail, covers his bad checks and helps to reinforce his illusions. I've known many who tolerate years of verbal abuse (Mercury-Saturn patterns), but many have a need to suffer (Saturn) in order to find their self-worth. Still everything has a limit (Saturn). As long as he retains control over you and you protect him, what was once love turns to fear, hatred and finally resentment. Let go. It doesn't mean you've given up; it simply means you have to allow him to hit bottom.

When you're emotionally involved, you must change your own attitudes and approaches. The withdrawal isn't easy, because you have become as addicted as he is, but that's why we have A.A. meetings, Al-Alon, ACOA, to share your experiences, so you can realize that you're not alone.

Lost home runs

SOMEWHERE ALONG the way from pen to press, a sentence was inadvertently dropped in this column on 4/15, and along with it two home runs were lost.

Dane Edmondson and Michael Cohen, rest assured. Those super hits of yours may have been lost, but they never were forgotten. Here they reemerge: In the Bronco division game on 4/11 between Cornucopia and Carmel Valley Disposal, Dane scored a home run hit for Cornucopia, and Michael for Carmel Valley Disposal.

First to play

Pinto division (ages 7&8): Among the first to play after the weeklong holiday break were Pine Inn (PI) and New Masters Gallery (NMG) on Monday 4/20. Lee Holbrook (NMG) led the batting with a high ball past 2nd for a single and another high one to center for a double. Good hits came from PI players Alexi Connell, Brittany Downing, and Evan Smith; and NMG players Greg Stutzman, Morgan Borup, Mike Hill, and Carl Lemos. Morgan Borup hustled to stop a fast ball at 2nd to tag out a runner from 1st.

Wednesday 4/22 matched RG Burgers (RGB) and Copies By The Sea (CBTS). For CBTS Kirk Danielson, Brendan Lyke, and Nick Pacitto all knocked out doubles. RGB batters James Gillette's left-field fly and Andrew Tope's center-field single kept CBTS moving. CBTS worked hard, however, to keep the outfield covered, with Nick Pacitto's extraordinary catch in right field, and Kephra Moon's two great stops there too. CBTS Andrew Dahl caught a fly at 3rd. RGB Kristin Wood threw well from shortstop to Phillip Thornburgh at 1st; RGB shortstop Jimmy Stoddard flung one to Max Rieser for an out at 1st.

A hot glove

On The Beach (OTB) player Gavin Edward's glove was hot at the Thursday 4/23 game with Thunderbird for Kids (TBK), as he caught a pop fly at the top of the 3rd. TBK's Mike Oswald was the best hitter with a double. On The Beach (OTB) occupied the diamond again on Saturday 4/25 with RG Burgers (RGB). Great hits came off the bats of Joe Stoffers, Phillip Thornburgh, Jimmy Stoddard, and Caitlin Travaille, whose doubles drove in 6 runners for RGB. OTB showed off their fielding with Carl Lostrom's pop-fly catch and Zach Baysinger's foul-ball catch that made an out at 1st. Paul Bancroft's good hit in the 1st inning and Carl Lostrom's double in the 3rd were also notable for OTB.

New Masters Gallery (NMG) and Copies By The Sea

(CBTS) had a Saturday packed with action. Brett George and Scott Spaulding both doubled for NMG. Nick Pacitto, Erik Van Valkenburgh, Brendan Lyke, and Kevin Dorey whacked automatic doubles for CBTS. Matt Herbert (NMG) wowed onlookers with a high-fly catch at left field. Brendan Lyke (CBTS) caught a fly and threw to 2nd for a double play. Peter Lee (CBTS) scrambled for an excellent stop at right field, and Erik Van Valkenburgh (CTBS) had to stretch low for his beautiful catch.

Heads-up play

Mustang division (ages 9&10): That's My Boy (TMB) had 14 runs to Fournane's (F) 6 on Tuesday 4/21. Walter Ross (F) as catcher and Scott Williams as pitcher made "heads up" plays for 2 outs at home plate. Brett Pallastrini (F) doubled, and Justin Brennan (F), Jeff Kraft (TMB), Rhett Petit (TMB), and Zarosh Eggleston (TMB) all drove in runs. Pitcher Kris Bonifas (F) had 4 strikeouts and made a great pop-fly catch at 1st. Rhett Petit (TMB) made a smart steal home.

Dean Witter (DW) played County Mounties (CM) to a 6-inning 12-12 tie Wednesday 4/22. Chris Foudy (DW) homered, 1 RBI, and Corey Wood (CM) tripled, 2 RBI, for the top hits. Bobby Stoddard doubled for DW. Another double by Jakob Hendrix (CM) evened up the game at the bottom of the 6th. A pickle executed by Brent Fogg (CM) and Corey Wood provided exciting double-play action. Catcher Anthony Kamm (CM) threw to pitcher Brent Fogg at home plate to end DW's 6th inning 6-run rally.

The final score was 11-2 in Sensation's (S) Thursday 4/23 win over Carmel Bay Company (CBC). Leading hitters David Blagg (CBC), Aaron Campbell (S), and Jeff McGowan (CBC) all doubled; Robin MacMillan (S), David Blagg (CBC), and Abe Oyler (S) all drove in runs. In good defense for CBC, Jeff McGowan caught a line drive and threw for an out at 1st, and Robby Wellington caught a fly and threw for an out at 3rd. Exceptional baserunning by S players Abe Oyler, Paul Huish, Michael Horsley, and Jeff Stutzman aided their team's victory.

County Mounties (CM) beat Carmel Bay Company (CBC) 7-5 on Saturday 4/25. Derek Gandzjuk (CBC) doubled twice. David Blagg (CBC), Robby Wellington (CBC), Brent Fogg (CM), and Brett Smith (CM) all doubled also. Brendan Berry (CM) augmented his team score with 2 RBI. Brett Smith (CM) had a no-runs pitching debut, while fellow pitcher Brent Fogg pitched a 1-hitter. Lee Lightfoot (CBC) shone by fielding 2 hot shots at shortstop. Nick Dubesa saved the game for CM with "heads up" play at 2nd.

Witter slams Fournane's

Dean Witter's (DW) encounter with Fournane's (F) on Saturday ended in a 13-6 win for DW. Strong hitting by Carl Weiner drove in 3 runs for F, and Adam Corder, 1 run for DW. Scott Williams (F) and Bobby Stoddard (DW) tripled Scott Williams (F), Brian Orosco (F), Michael Newman (DW), and Nick Russo (DW) all doubled. Travis Moran (DW) pitched 2 shutout innings. Scott Williams and Kris Bonifas pulled off a double play for F; Brett Pallastrini (F) made a great catch at 2nd.

Sensations (S) bested Coast Teleproductions (CTP)

13-5 Saturday. Ross Saroyan (CTP) hit a home run. Michael Horsley (S) produced 2 doubles, 4 RBI. Keith Sames (CTP), Jeremy Peachier (CTP), Aaron Campbell (S), and Jeff Stutzman (S) all doubled. Derek Shue got an unassisted out. There was distinguished catching by Robin MacMillan (S), Keith Sames (CTP), and Patrick Thomas (CTP).

Close, exciting game

Bronco division (ages 11&12): It was a close, exciting game on Monday 4/20 between Cornucopia (C) and Vessey's (V), as C scored 2 runs in the 7th and final inning to win 7-5 over V. Top hitter Rushad Eggleston (V) had 2 doubles. Russell Wolter (V) had 2 RBI. In a double play for C, pitcher Erik Gilliland threw to Nick Campbell at 2nd to Dane Edmondson at 1st. V's double play in the 7th had Justin Noseworthy at 2nd throw to Shawn Cronin at shortstop to Justin Henze at 1st. Chris Cook (C) contributed strong hitting and 2nd base fielding; Patrick Foudy (C) strong hitting and pitching.

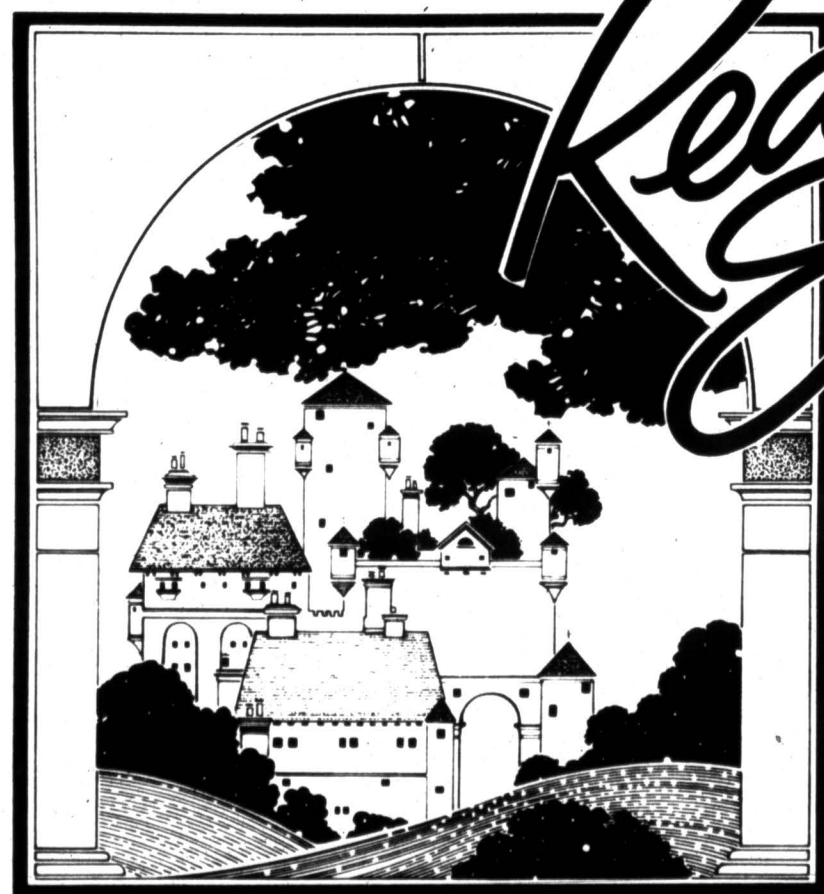

The 10-run rule halted the Tuesday 4/21 game between Bay Bikes (BB) and Carmel Valley Disposal (CVD) at the end of the 5th inning, with BB the winner at 13-3. BB put on a show of batting strength. Austin Guest (BB) went 2-for-4 with a double; Trevor Fogg 2-for-3, 2 RBI, and Jacob Silver 2-for-3, 4 RBI. CVD top hitter was Michael Cohen 2-for-3, 1 RBI. CVD had 2 double plays: Michael Cohen caught a deep fly to shortstop and threw to Reid Roberts to put out a runner off 1st. Trent Nishiguchi tagged a runner and threw to Marcos Ortega for another double out. Chris Peart (BB) made a great running catch in left field.

One run at the bottom of the 6th fell short for Vessey's (V), so Derek Rayne (DR) emerged the winner at 13-12 on Thursday 4/23. Ashwin Datt (DR) had a fantastic game with 5 unassisted defensive plays and batted 2-for-3, 2 RBI. DR players Shyamala White went 2-for-3, and Hank Stoffers went 2-for-2, 1 RBI. Shawn Cronin (V) had a spectacular double with RBI. Rushad Eggleston (V) was 2-for-3.

In a Fog

Cornucopia (C) defeated Bay Bikes (BB) 15-9 on Saturday 4/25. Trevor Fogg (BB), who batted 2-for-2 including a double and scored 2 runs, was top hitter. As pitcher, Trevor gave up only 2 hits over 4 innings. Matt Bedell (C) pitched 2 no-hit innings; Erik Gilliland (C), Patrick Foudy (C), and Keith Moon (BB) each pitched 3-up 3-down innings. Brian Dawson (C) wasn't going to let anyone get past him, as he made 6 outs playing 2nd base. Jacob Silver (BB) put up a good defense at 3rd for the other team.

Carmel Valley Disposal (CVD) bested Derek Rayne (DR) 5-4 on Saturday. Leading hitters were Matt Borek (CVD), Michael Cohen (CVD), and Erik Bensberg (DR), all with doubles. Trent Nishiguchi (CVD) pitched a no-hitter. Teammate Michael Cohen also pitched well, striking out 6 batters. Matt Borek (CVD), Hank Stoffers (DR), and Zak Freedman (DR) did some super catching. Correction: On 4/7 Sensations won Dean Witter 12-5, not the opposite reported here 4/15.

WPI ANNOUNCES COMMENCEMENT HONORARY DEGREE RECIPIENTS

Worcester Polytechnic Institute will honor four distinguished persons identified with discovery or innovation at its 124th commencement on Saturday, May 23. An estimated 780 undergraduate and graduate degrees will be awarded at the engineering and science university.

"Discovery: Seeking Answers to the Unknown," is the theme of WPI's commencement, chosen in part to recognize the quinquacentenary of Columbus' voyage, as well as a spirit of adventure and risk-taking. "Each of the honorary degree recipients are pioneers in their own right," says WPI President Jon C. Strauss. "Each was willing to explore new horizons, take that risk, and achieve success."

Among those receiving honorary doctor of science degrees will be Herman Medwin, founder and owner, Medwin is known for his work in acoustical oceanography and is the president of the Acoustical Society of America.

He received his bachelor's degree in physics from WPI in 1941 and served with the U.S. Army from 1942 to 1946. After World War II he taught physics at Los Angeles City College while earning his master's and Ph.D. degrees in physics at UCLA.

He joined the faculty at the Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey in 1955 and taught there until 1980, when he retired as emeritus professor. Upon his retirement he founded Ocean Acoustics Associates.

During his career Medwin has published nearly 100 scientific articles and earned patents in underwater acoustics. In 1972 he received the Sigma XI Distinguished Research Award from the Naval Postgraduate School. He is the co-author of Acoustical Oceanography, a standard textbook in the field.

Medwin contributes his scientific efforts to institutions throughout the world. He has served as a consultant for the Stanford Research Institute, George Washington University and as a liaison scientist with the U.S. Office of Naval Research. He has also worked with the Hudson Laboratories of Columbia University and as a visiting scientist at the Imperial College in England and at the Royal Naval Research Laboratory in Australia. While acoustical oceanography has been Medwin's vocation, music has been his avocation. As an undergraduate he organized and played with the WPI String Ensemble and the Worcester Philharmonic Orchestra. Medwin has maintained a lifelong interest in music. He was a violinist with the Los Angeles Civic Orchestra, the Arlington (Mass.) Symphony Orchestra and the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra. His fondness for music activities inspired him to establish an endowment in 1987 to revive and support a string ensemble at WPI.

SOROPTIMIST DONATES ENCYCLOPEDIA SET TO HARRISON MEMORIAL LIBRARY

In the interest of fostering better understanding, appreciation and communication between countries, a group of corporate sponsors from Japan have given an exceptionally beautiful set of encyclopedia of Japanese Crafts to the Soroptimist International of Carmel Bay Club, for donation to a library or educational institution of their choice.

The Soroptimist Club chose to donate the volumes to Harrison Memorial Library. In a brief ceremony on Wednesday, April 22 at the Pine Inn, President Demi Briscoe presented the volumes to Harrison Memorial Library's assistant director, Lettie Bennett. Sandy Hames, also employed by the Library, and a Soroptimist as well, helped make the presentation. They hope these volumes, which are accompanied by video tapes, will get much use.

Father Farrell's Wisdom

"If your 'cabeza' is wax, don't sleep in the sun"

Years ago as a slim (I stress the word slim) redheaded, freckle-faced lad living a few blocks from Tortilla Flats, I could hear the Cannery Row whistles blowing to tell that the sardines were in, and that cannery workers were needed on the double. We laughed when we said, "Carmel-by-the-Sea, Pacific Grove-by-the-Bible and Monterey-by-the-Smell." My uncle Jack Harrington the Wharfinger was asked by a visitor, "What is that stench?" "Madame, that is the aroma of money." Does Cannery Row still reek with the same perfume?

Looking at the behavior of the leaders of the business and professional community after two mugs of beer and a jug of cino evvio, we might conclude Cannery Row has an adverse effect on all males and their music sounds like the old cannery whistles, loud and off-key.

Still, Lord, bless them all, the long, the short and the tall, and see them home safely after this lunch in a danger zone.

My old Paisano friend Pelon Chulo Soso used to say that all men are burros and estupido ones at that. When they bray they should expect to be beaten. Then with a coy smile, he would add, "If your cabeza is made of wax don't take a siesta in the sun, and if you don't want to end up in a can like a sardine, stay away from Cannery Row."

Finally, if you ride a wooden caballo (horse) on the carousel or the merry-go-round next door it won't make you a caballero (that's a gentlemen in English).

Still, if all else fails you might try it for size.

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

William Dillard was 23 when he started his retailing company in 1938, and he's still guiding its growth. Dillard Department Stores, headquarters in Little Rock, Arkansas, now numbers close to 200 stores. Besides opening its own new stores, the company has purchased 53 from other chains since 1987. Thanks to the Dillard touch — upgrading decor and merchandise, its stores rank No. 1 in most of its markets. At 76, Dillard is proud of his five children who are company executives: "They could be top people in any retail organization..."

Pearl Mehl, of Boulder, Colorado, is a retired high school teacher, a great-grandmother and a champion runner. At 76, she won the senior-category 1991 Arête Award for Courage in Sports. Tennis used to be her game. But when arthritis made her give it up, she turned to running—and has set one record after another in her age group. She trains by running five or six days a week. "I didn't want to sit and watch TV," she explains. "You need to keep up some kind of physical activity as you get older."

Intellect and mystery: Photo center mounts exhibit of 90 of Wynn Bullock's acclaimed images

IN CELEBRATION of the late Wynn Bullock's 90th anniversary of his birth, guest Curator David Featherstone has drawn nearly 90 photographs from the Bullock archives for an exhibition at the Center for Photographic Art.

A reception will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. Friday, May 1 at the center. The images span over four decades of Bullock's work from the late 1930s up to his death in 1976, and range from contemplative nudes and intellectually mysterious seascapes to darkly compelling negative images of rocks and the coastal environment.

What emerges from this exhibition is a view of a photographer who was constantly challenged by the potential of the photographic medium, by the world around him and by his creative reaction to it.

Wynn Bullock was born in Chicago on April 18, 1902. He developed an early interest in music, trained as a concert singer, and, during the 1920s, supported his musical studies in New York City with public performances.

While continuing his studies in France, Bullock became entranced with the photography of Moholy-Nagy and Man Ray. He began to photograph as a hobby. In 1945 he settled on the Monterey Peninsula where he established a commercial photography business.

In the late 1940s Bullock met Edward Weston and was strongly influenced by this master photographer. Further influence came from Korzybski's philosophical writings, and from the early 1950s until his death, Bullock sought through his photography to give visual expression to basic principles of perception and experience.

This intellectual underpinning of his work set Bullock apart from other peninsula photographers, and brought him widespread acknowledgement. In the late 1960s he became a founding member of The Friends of Photography, served as volunteer exhibition program director and was instrumental in organizing their shows.

Guest Curator David Featherstone became acquainted with Bullock and his photography while a graduate student at the University of Oregon. Featherstone was a staff member of The Friends of Photography from 1977 until 1991, and produced a wide variety of their exhibitions and publications.

He is now working as an independent curator, writer and editor.

For more information call the Center for Photographic Art at Sunset Center, Carmel, 625-5181. Office hours are 10-5 Monday through Thursday; gallery hours are Tuesday through Sunday, 1-5 pm.

Cherry Hall show explores range of emotional states

A THREE-ARTIST exhibit, featuring photographer Kira Corser, the acrylics of Branham Rendlen and sculptor Thomas Atkins, opens Saturday, May 2 at the Carl Cherry Foundation.

The exhibit explores a range of mental states, from Corser's enigmatic photographs in Dreaming the Earth Spirit, to Rendlen's evocative repertory of symbols and mental terrain and Atkins' personalized assimilation of mythic forms in sculpture.

Corser is known nationally for her documentary photography with poet Frances Payne Adler.

A reception for the artists will be held Saturday, May 2, from 4 to 6 p.m., at the Cherry Gallery, Fourth and Guadalupe, Carmel. The exhibit can be seen through May 29. Gallery hours are Monday through Friday from 11 to 4 p.m.

The Cherry Foundation, a non-profit arts organization serving the art, education and the sciences, is supported in part through grants from the city of Carmel and the Monterey County Cultural Council. For more information, call 624-7491.

BRONZE BY Thom Atkins, part of a three-artist exhibit at Cherry Hall.

I Cantori continues 11th season with two mission concerts

I CANTORI di Carmel will continue its 11th season with two concerts to be performed Saturday, May 1, and Sunday, May 3, at the Carmel Mission Basilica. Both performances will begin at 8 p.m.

Dr. Sal Ferrantelli, music director of I. Cantori, has selected John Rutter's Requiem Mass as the feature work for these concerts.

The first half of the program will include the following a capella pieces: Bruckner's Gradual "Christus factus est pro nobis," Barber's "Sure on this shining night," Britten's "Jubilate Deo," Brahms' "Lass dich nur nichts dauren," and Lotti's "Crucifixus." The choir will also perform a contemporary choral composition by Egil Hovland entitled "Saul."

It's recommended that tickets be purchased in advance. They are $13 and are available at the Monterey County Theater Alliance Box Office (655-3200), Do Re Mi Music store in the Barnyard, The Bookworks in Pacific Grove, or from any member of I Cantori. The Monterey County Theater Alliance Box Office will accept credit card orders; the other outlets require payment in cash or by check.

Fine display of teamwork

JEAN-PIERRE LEGUAY, titular organist of the Cathedral of Notre Dame, was heard in recital at Carmel's Church of the Wayfarer Sunday afternoon.

There were many unusual ingredients present in this particular musical offering which was given before a well nigh full house audience. Certainly the history of musical performance mentions blind virtuosi, but they have been few and far between.

From the sound of his playing, one could not guess that M. Leguay is numbered among them, yet he is, and his wife is his invaluable assistant, pulling stops and changing registers with precision and accuracy in a fine display of teamwork. Most thoughtfully, the church provided the audience with the ability to watch the organist in action by providing an enormous TV monitor strategically placed for the entire audience. Not only were there close-up views of the three manuals and the player's fingers, but we were also able to watch his footwork on the pedals.

Another seldom offered treat was an exhibition of M. Leguay's expertness and facility in the art of musical improvisation. This ability, which used to be of the highest importance in the Baroque and Classical eras, is now practiced almost exclusively by jazz musicians.

Local organist and composer William Zeitler furnished an original theme for the demonstration, playing it twice. The artist took a few moments to consider what he had heard, then told his wife what stops he wanted to use.

He played a series of chords which altered the initial impression, though not the notes of the melody. It became pensive, grave and slightly haunting. In developing the material he made rhythmic changes, added harmonic spices and even a prominent pedal part. The music that resulted sounded well-organized and polished. While there are specific techniques which are involved, judicious use must be made of the elements of the theme and the end result was indeed impressive.

On the other hand, the organist's own original composition, his Sonata No. 1 completed in 1974, was very difficult to encompass both technically and musically. Somewhat fragmented in procedures, full of splashy harmonics and thorny chord progressions, it is in a distinctly modern idiom. There were many manual and stop changes, exploiting the instrumental colors and dynamics of the organ. There was no recognizable theme, but there was a feeling for the extravagant gesture.

The program began with two rather pedestrianly rendered Bach works, the "Prelude and Fugue in C Major" and the Chorale-Prelude "Vater Unser in Himmelmreich." The playing was straightforward and rather pallid.

These were followed by two of Brahms' last compositions. The Chorale-Preludes "Herzliebster Jesu" and "Herzlich tut mich verlangen." Here the registration was sympathetic and mellow. The dynamics were shaped well and very pleasant to listen to.

Brahms' "Prelude and Fugue in G Minor" is an early work which allows the performer to exploit the fullness of the instrument's tone. The prelude was brilliant and dramatic with toccata-like passage work. The rippling arpeggios and scales ran very smoothly and the pedal passages were very well played.

The fugue has much the same character and it was interesting to see and hear the stops being added or subtracted as the music moved over all three manuals.

"Quatre pieces en style libre" by Louis Vierne who was the organist of Notre Dame at the turn of the century (and who was also blind), used orchestrally registered music. These ranged from the grandiose brass of the "Cortege" to the flutes of the "Legende" and all were enjoyably varied.

As encores, the artist played another Brahms' Chorale-Prelude "Schmucke Dich" and a French Renaissance dance.

Rock on...again

JUST WHEN you thought you had the music scene on the Monterey Peninsula figured out, two "new" players enter the arena.

In the next couple of weeks Brooke Lewis, owner of The Club, after a long (and sporadic) hiatus, will once again book live rock music into his downtown Monterey club on Thursday nights. Hard on his heels will be the Lane Brothers, late of the recently deceased New Boiler Room, who plan to use that very same space for a new nightclub, which is being named "Planet Gemini," and is reportedly being backed by two big Hollywood stars. The brothers ran a cryptic ad last week in another weekly that contained a spacy drawing and these words: "The Night is Black/The Stars are Blue/And Gemini is on the Rise/Experience what New York & Hollywood Have been talking about for years/Coming Soon to Monterey on Cannery Row." I can hardly wait.

Apparently the club is patterned after the trendy Planet Hollywood restaurants that movie stars Sylvester Stallone, Arnold Schwarzenegger and others have invested in. Whether the Lane Brothers will be bringing in musical acts other than their own band

STRICTLY ROOTS

Foreign Exchange), is yet to be determined.

As for Lewis, he says he may book the occasional nationally known act, but, "I'm going to try to keep it to local bands to keep the cover (charge) under control and try to get the local rock scene going again. I can't do what I used to do (book weekly "name" acts). The town just can't support it."

As for reggae, he says he'll also book reggae bands on occasion, but the night will mostly be reserved for rock bands. The first night will be May 14 with a double bill of the Young Presidents and Lovers & Strangers, no strangers to the local rock scene. Cover will be $5.

Stay tuned, as they say, for further developments.

PROMISING CARMEL High rock group Still Time played to an enthusiastic crowd at last Saturday's Springfest '92 on the lawn fronting the gymnasium.

Although they got a late start they still managed to retain a good crowd of teenagers and put on a widely varied set, part thrash rock, part metal, part Seattle grunge and a lot of humor (one of their ballads is called, appropriately, The Ballad, done tongue-in-cheek—at least I hope it was).

The band has also been getting some attention of late from sources other than teenagers: it plans to go into the studio in May to cut a demo and may get a chance to take a trip to Russia to tour this summer with other musical groups. Pretty heady stuff for such a young group.

UPCOMING EVENTS with a musical bent on the Monterey Peninsula and outlying areas:

• Shanty Malone's continues its weekly "no-cover" bookings of the Norm Ross Trio on Thursdays (at 8 p.m.), and The Northerners on Sundays (at 7).

On Friday, May 1 Shanty's has the return of The Sundogs for an evening of swamp beat boogie. The 'dogs combine Cajun, zydeco and New Orleans boogie with a healthy dose of roadhouse rock and blues for their energetic shows.

On Saturday, May 2, another returning act, the ever-popular roots reggae band Strictly Roots, and why not? The band packs the joint with dancers every time they play there.

For info on Shanty Malone's shows, call 626-0604.

• Doc Ricketts' Lab on Cannery Row has a rare mid-week jazz show featuring dynamic conguero Poncho Sanchez and his Latin band, Tuesday, May 5 for a special Cinco de Mayo show. This show was originally slated for the Hyatt Regency, but apparently bookers felt the man couldn't fill the space on a weeknight. But he sure can fill a space with his music—which is hot and hearty. He's a crowd favorite at the Monterey Jazz Festival and has one of the best Latin bands in the country backing him.

Local bands playing in the coming weeks include Eight-Second Ride, April 29; and Lovers & Strangers, April 30.

Info on all shows can be had by calling 649-4241.

• Portofino Cafe in PG will feature local blues guitarist Fred Curry at 8 p.m. Thursday, April 30. Cover's $5.

For reservations or further information about concerts at Portofino, call 373-7379.

UPCOMING SHOWS at The Catalyst in Santa Cruz include: Dennis Brown with Lloyd Parks & We the People (April 29); Doors Hotel (April 30—Dollar Night); Strictly Roots (May 1); Meat Puppets (May 2); Human Race/Johnny P. Bucks/The Butchers (May 7—Dollar Night); Santa Cruz Steel (May 8); Big Bang Beat (May 9); Sun-60/Rabbit Choir/Bodacious Brothers (May 14—Dollar Night); The Untouchables (May 15); Cowboy Junkies (May 16); Taj Mahal (May 19); Serious George/Brothers of Other/Furious George (May 21—Dollar Night); Merl Saunders & the Rainforest Band/Ken Arconti (May 22); Willie Colon/Legal Alien (May 23); Ride/slow dive (May 24); Bad Dreams/Pat McCormack (May 28); Pele Juju (May 29); URJ (May 30); Weird Al Yankovic (May 31—two shows 7:30 with all ages and 10:30 ages 21 and over).

Tickets are available at all BASS/TM outlets (including The Warehouse on Lighthouse Avenue in New Monterey and at The Crossroads). Info for Catalyst shows can be had by calling 423-1336. The Catalyst is located at 1011 Pacific Ave. in downtown Santa Cruz.

Jazz Tides

By John Detro

Flute thing

THE PERSONAL sparkle of jazz flutist Ali Ryerson moves quite naturally and easily into her music. Audiences can help celebrate that fact on Friday evening (5/1) at Barbara Murphy's Portofino Cafe in Pacific Grove. Ali will bring copies of her brand new CD — Blue Flute on the Red Baron label (Sony operation).

Portofino and Ryerson, a Carmel Valley resident, bill the occasion as Explorations Beyond Jazz: 20th Century Music from Hindemith to Corea. Tickets cost $8 apiece with advance purchases recommended (info via 373-7379).

Working behind her will be fine young pianist Ed Mendenhall and drummer Johnny Goldsmith. Flutist Lynn Jones will be called upon when special segments come round.

The official Album Release Party will happen at the Sunday Afternoon Jazz Series of Doc Ricketts' Lab near Cannery Row (5/3). This swinging four-hour sequence kicks off at two o'clock. Your hosts: venue owner Kelly Leonard and series booker John Cortes (fine reedman whose quartet supports guest artists each time). Only $3 per at the door.

Ali's CD features four of the planet's strongest players — Kenny Barron (piano), Red Rodney (trumpet), Santi Debriano (bass), Roy Haynes (drums). Interestingly, four of the seven tunes have longtime producer Bob Thiele's name on them. Kenny and the other men demand the best of Ryerson; she comes through with both energy and refined taste.

My only quibble centers on song selection. The ratio of six originals to one standard hardly gives us a chance to hear how her ideas can make warhorse compositions brand new. Maybe next time she'll include more familiar material — the real test of personal alchemy — including a post-bop barnburner or two. As it stands, however, the package deserves every consideration for your collection.

More jazz...

- The Cinco De Mayo bash spotlighting the great Pancho Sanchez Band will be held at Doc Ricketts' Lab on Tuesday night (5/5). As opposed to the Hyatt Regency as announced at first by event producer Mike Evans. It's $14 (649-4241) with a nine o'clock kick. Pancho's gang inspires and refreshes constantly.

- Pacific Grove Arts Commission plans a free concert series on Sunday afternoons at the gazebo in Jewell Park. Playing the opener will be PG High School Jazz Band (5/3). One o'clock start time.

- The genius Brazilian reedman and composer Hermeto Pascoal will lead his touring bunch into Kuumbwa Jazz Center of Santa Cruz on Monday night (5/4). Details: 1-427-2422. Tito Puente's coming up (5/11).

- Monterey Bay Hot Jazz Society announces that the Dixieland aggregation Toot Sweet will return to help celebrate Mother's Day at the MBHJS get-together of May 10. The Sunday afternoon event will welcome dancers as well as listeners from 1:30-4:30 at the Moose Lodge (555 Canyon Del Rey). Door charges of $4 (members) and $6 (others). Toot Sweet hails from Mountain View; local musicians were invited to sit in.

- You can catch the Monterey County Jazz Orchestra on Monday nights at the Monterey Bay Club.

- Chardonnay Winery of Soquel stages a Sunday series called (reasonably enough) Jazz at Chardonnay. Due on May 17 — vocalist Madeline Eastman with saxist Richie Cole, Dick Hindman (piano), Seward McCain (bass), Vince Lateano (drums). The non-profit contribution includes "gourmet buffet and beverages." For more info call 1-476-7232 and ask for John Knipe.

- Pianist Dave Clay and bassist Don Roseff play for Sunday Brunch at Monterey's Clock Garden Restaurant.

- Jazz Camp '92 ("an outdoor retreat") will be held from July 18-25 in Aptos. Faculty includes Eddie Marshall, Ed Kelly, Mark Levine, Madeline Eastman, John Santos, many other pros. Classes open to "adults and older teens at all levels of experience." Concert series welcomes the public. Inquiries: (415) 540-5149.

EMOTIONAL MOMENTS emerged from last weekend's jazz scene. At Doc Ricketts' Lab, vibist Bill Jackson paid tribute to his recently-deceased wife — the generous and witty Vivian. Her vocalist brother, Randy Reynolds, joined Bill on a moving version of Lionel Bart's Where Is Love? There weren't too many dry eyes in the house. The lady's ways were cherished by all who knew her.

And we had Monterey Jazz Festival's annual High School Competition at the fairgrounds. As always, the pro players who judged youthful efforts gave a free concert. Some spoke their feelings about Jimmy Lyons, in his 35th and final year of fest leadership.

Guitarist Bruce Forman told the crowd: "Jimmy has allowed me to play with my idols and learn from them." Alto saxist Jackie Kelso: "Imagine that. I've known this man (Jimmy) no fewer than 50 years...."

Incoming general manager Tim Jackson thanked Jimmy, the MJF board and staff people for "the smooth transition." Looking at Tim, Jimmy said from the stage: "The festival is being left in the best possible hands."

Student winners

Students from many different parts of California laughed and clapped as winners were announced Saturday and Sunday. Folsom High School Jazz Choir captured the vocal division ($500 prize and an appearance at September's MJF).

Folsom's Teresa Da Vigo won the Carol Mildon Memorial — cash award named after the late and fine jazz vocalist who grew up here before moving to San Francisco. The two qualifying units from Santa Cruz High simply didn't show up; no explanation offered.

Top big band: Rio Americano High (Sacramento — $1,000 and the fest arena Sunday set). Runners-up Folsom and Berkeley High will appear on the Garden Stage. Best combo: El Camino High of South San Francisco ($500 and official MJF gig).

Trumpeter David Krimsley from Pacific Grove High won a slot in the 1992 MJF All-Star Band. PG's Willie Deitz scored as alternate bassist. Alternates are chosen in case players can't make the aggregation's summertime Japan tour.

Other Monterey Bay Area winners: trumpets Tanya Darby (Monterey High) and Jason Sande (Aptos)...alternate baritone saxist Dylan O'Neil (North Monterey)...trombones David Burns (Aptos), Scott Larson (Aptos), Jeromie Clark (North Salinas).

Chamber music society competitions slated this weekend

THE CHAMBER Music Society of the Monterey Peninsula has two principal goals: First, to bring the finest in chamber music to the peninsula; and Second, to encourage young musicians to pursue a career in chamber music.

It is in pursuit of the latter goal that the Annual Carmel Chamber Music Competition was established by the society. The 21st Competition will take place on Saturday, May 2, at 1 p.m., to be followed by the Winners' Concert on Sunday, May 3, at 3 p.m. Both musical events will be held at the Sunset Center Theater, San Carlos at Ninth, Carmel.

The competition attracts non-professional ensembles from some of the foremost university departments of music and conservatories in the Nation. These groups submit tape recordings of two contrasting compositions, and the recordings are screened by a committee of four outstanding musicians.

The musical performance of these ensembles will be judged by a jury of five musicians, each a master of chamber music instrumentation.

Single tickets for the Winners' Concert on Sunday, May 3, are available at the door before the Concert for only $5. The auditions on Saturday, May 2, are open to the public free of charge.

The 1992-93 season is the 25th anniversary of the Chamber Music Society, and opens with the Tokyo String Quartet in October. Memberships for the new season are now available.

For information please call 625-2212.

A miscarriage of justice

By JIM KINNEY

JFK: Conspiracy of Silence. By Charles A. Crenshaw, MD (with Jens Hansen and J. Gary Shaw). Signet Books. 203 pages. $4.99 paperback.

WHEN PRESIDENT John F. Kennedy was shot in Dallas' Dealey Plaza at 12:30 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 22, 1963, he was rushed by ambulance, mortally wounded, to nearby Parkland Hospital.

Among the medical personnel waiting to receive the dying man in Parkland's Trauma Room #1 was a 30-year-old surgeon named Dr. Charles A. Crenshaw.

For the rest of that horrifying weekend, Crenshaw and his medical associates fought an unsuccessful battle to save first Kennedy, then Lee Harvey Oswald, shot two days later by Jack Ruby on national TV and immediately labeled by the FBI and Secret Service as the sole assassin of Kennedy.

Crenshaw's book is a detailed, moment-by-moment account of these events, seen from the hospital operating room. And it's a very readable piece of work.

Much of this title's power stems from the exact technical knowledge and observations which such an author was able to provide. His conclusions: John F. Kennedy was murdered as the result of a conspiracy; that two of the three bullets which struck Kennedy were fired from the front, not from behind as claimed by the Warren Commission; that major medical alterations were performed on Kennedy's corpse on its flight to Bethesda Naval Hospital near Washington to make it appear that the president had been killed from behind.

The most obvious question is why did Dr. Crenshaw wait 28 years to tell the story from his vantage point in Parkland's operating room. He answers it with the same compelling honesty and patriotic intensity that drive the book.

His long silence came from an immediate fear for his own life during that long weekend and a later concern for his medical career. Now nearing 60, successful and head of surgery at a large Fort Worth hospital, Crenshaw has chosen at last to dispel what he considers the longtime governmental lies and misinformation surrounding the Kennedy assassination.

He speaks of "the men in suits" who terrorized the medical team as they worked feverishly over Kennedy's body — men shouting and waving loaded weapons who threatened to kill one surgeon if he did not stand aside and let them remove Kennedy's body for a flight to Washington without a mandatory Texas autopsy.

He tells of a vow of silence imposed by the senior surgeon of the Parkland team, a Dr. Charles Baxter: "If anybody here makes a dime off the assassination, we'll see to it that they never go anywhere in medicine again."

Other unusual details are brought to light for the first time: a strange telephone call Crenshaw accepted from the newly sworn-in President, Lyndon Johnson, while working on Oswald, directing him to allow one of the men in suits lurking uninvited in the operating room to "take a deathbed confession from the accused assassin." He tells of anonymous telephoned threats against the doctors discussing what they had seen.

Calling the Warren Commission Report "a fable," Crenshaw characterizes Kennedy's murder as a "coup d'etat, no better than a 30-second revolution in a third-rate country."

With books such as this starting to proliferate after the release of Oliver Stone's remarkable movie — JFK — many (myself included) believe that the complex cover-up surrounding Kennedy's death is starting to come unglued.

Calling Kennedy's murder "a great miscarriage of justice" which led to "an almost complete loss of faith" by the American people in their government and its agencies, this determined medical doctor feels it is time for that conspiracy to be uncovered and, toward that end, offers his compelling book as one more source of evidence.

PILGRIM'S WAY Bookstore of downtown Carmel will handle book sales for the Crystal and Psychic Fair happening Saturday and Sunday (5/2-3) in Monterey Peninsula College's Student Center.

The event will run from 10 a.m.-6 p.m. both days. Admission: $3.50.

On Wednesday evening (5/6), Pilgrim's Way will present James Battle in its regular series. Topic: Ayurveda — An Introductory Lecture. Starts at seven o'clock; $5 per at the door.
